

Khrush To Abandon Bases "Step Back From Danger," Kennedy Says

Tension Falls After Historic Letter Swap

Military Buildup
Continues Pending
Deeds, Not Words

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy accepted with praise Sunday Premier Khrushchev's offer to dismantle Soviet missile bases in Cuba and return their nuclear rockets to Russia. He said it made it possible for both nations to "step back from danger."

But the President underscored that the U.N. verification of such rocket removal — which Khrushchev agreed to in his message — must be carried out in detail. And Kennedy moved quickly to implement such inspection.

Both leaders spoke, too, of moving from the Cuban crisis to wider questions of world disarmament — Kennedy making clear this could come only after a Cuban solution satisfactory to the United States. The historic exchange of letters between the leaders of the West and the East stirred elation — tempered by caution — here and in allied capitals around the world. And in every quarter of the globe almost audible sighs of relief arose from millions who have lived for seven tense days in fear of a clash of the world's military giants.

U.S. Continues Buildup

If Khrushchev moves quickly to match deeds to his words, it seemed clear this would end the crisis that brought the two great nations to the verge of armed conflict that could have triggered World War III with all its threat of nuclear catastrophe.

But pending solid evidence that the Soviet leader means what he says this time, the United States did not slacken the pace of its military buildup, relax its naval quarantine against further offensive arms shipments to Cuba nor cease the aerial surveillance needed to tell whether the Cuban bases stop threatening this nation's security.

More than 14,000 Air Force Reservists, mostly in units used to airlift troops for combat, were put on active duty almost simultaneously with Khrushchev's announcement of the missile withdrawal orders.

Khrushchev's letter announcing his momentous decision "in the interests of peace" was conciliatory in tone as he granted the basic U.S. demands for neutralization of the Cuban nuclear threat. And he made no mention of withdrawal of U.S. missiles from Turkey — a swap he had proposed only Saturday.

Air Violation Accidental

About the only controversial note in Khrushchev's long letter was a charge that a U.S. U2 reconnaissance plane had violated Soviet air space in Asia Sunday.

Apparently determined to match Khrushchev's conciliatory approach, Kennedy acknowledged the straying of the reconnaissance plane but said it was due to a serious navigational error and noted the aircraft was engaged in an air sampling mission in connection with Soviet nuclear tests, rather than in the gathering of military intelligence.

But the President said in his letter: "I regret this incident and will see to it that every precaution is taken to prevent recurrence."

Earlier, Kennedy had praised in a public statement the Soviet leader's "statesmanlike decision" as "an important and constructive contribution to peace."

As did Khrushchev, Kennedy recognized in his letter that the Cuban confrontation, perilous as it is, constitutes only one aspect of the West-East problem. He agreed with the Soviet premier that the whole question of disarmament and an easing of world tensions needs examination.

"Perhaps now, as we step back from danger, we can together make real progress in this vital field," he told Khrushchev.

Press secretary Salinger said he did not know just when negotiations will begin at the United Nations, but added that the "necessary measures" of which Kennedy spoke would be taken.

U Thant Will Go To Cuba For Parley With Castro

U.N. Official Accepts Bid From Fidel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant announced Sunday he will go to Cuba at Prime Minister Fidel Castro's invitation to discuss the Cuban crisis. A U.N. spokesman said he expects to leave Tuesday.

Thant acted swiftly in advance of receipt here of Premier Khrushchev's announced order to stop work on Soviet weapon sites in Cuba and to dismantle and ship the weapons home. The broadcast from Moscow sent Thant hurrying into a round of new conferences.

As broadcast by Moscow radio, Khrushchev agreed to U.N. inspection of the dismantling operation. One urgent task of Thant would be to arrange for the inspection.

Thant handed his letter of acceptance to Cuban Chief Delegate Mario Garcia-Inchaustegui as he continued talks here looking toward a final settlement of the crisis.

Thant Hopeful Of Solution

The letter said Thant hopes his Havana discussions will produce a solution "by which the principle of respect for the sovereignty of Cuba would be assured."

Thant wrote Castro that he hopes the solution will make it possible "for action which would reassure other countries which have felt themselves threatened by recent developments in Cuba." Thant's letter replied to a message Saturday from Castro, who agreed to stop construction of installation of missile bases in Cuba provided that the United States lift its blockade.

Replying to Thant's earlier appeal for this concession, Castro invited the U.N. official to come to Cuba "for direct discussions on the present crisis." But he insisted that any settlement must respect Cuba's sovereignty.

The secretary general said he would take a few aides with him to Cuba and leave some behind "to continue our common effort toward the peaceful solution of the problem."

Stevenson, Thant Confer

The U.N. spokesman said these would include U.N. undersecretaries Omar Loufi of the United Arab Republic and Hernani Tavares de Sa of Brazil and Thant's military adviser, Indian Brig Indarjit Rikhye.

U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson, after an hour's conference with Thant, told newsmen the secretary-general is "ready for all eventualities" that might arise from Premier Khrushchev's announced order to stop work on Soviet weapon sites in Cuba and ship the weapons home.

Stevenson had read the Moscow radio announcement on a news wire at his mission and hurried across the street to talk it over with Thant. He declined comment on the order, because, he said, neither he nor Thant yet had the official text of Khrushchev's letter reporting his decision to President Kennedy.

Cuba May Prove Demo Asset

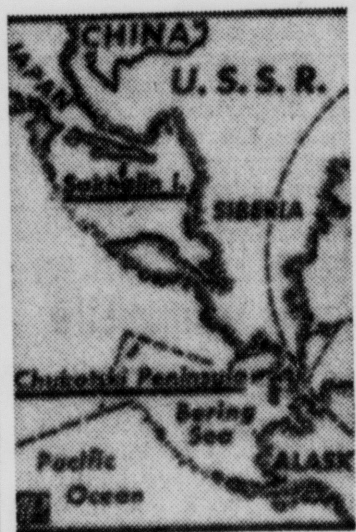

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prospect of a Soviet backdown in the Cuban missile crisis gave Democratic congressional campaigners a lift Sunday and promised to rocket President Kennedy's personal popularity.

If Kennedy wins the battle of nuclear terror with Soviet Premier Khrushchev—and many a big "if" remains on the course toward any satisfactory settlement—politicians will be inclined to say that the President will be well on his way toward re-election in 1964.

Any resolution of the controversy based on a steadfast American stand obviously will strengthen Kennedy's hand in the next major crisis likely to crowd the center of the international stage—Berlin.

De Gaulle Wins By Margin Less Than Expected

PARIS (AP)—French voters gave President De Gaulle a narrower than expected victory in Sunday's referendum, but it was indicated Monday that he considered the outcome a sufficient popular mandate for him to continue in office.

The immediate issue was De Gaulle's proposal to elect future French presidents by popular vote, and it passed. But De Gaulle had threatened to quit the presidency unless he could consider the balloting a warm personal endorsement. He said he could not carry on if the results were "weak, mediocre or doubtful."

He never set a figure on what margin he would consider as a sufficient mandate, but there was little doubt the endorsement was not as warm as he would have liked.

Complete official returns issued by the interior ministry Monday showed De Gaulle's proposal got the valid ballots cast. But stay-aways, "no" votes and spoiled ballots cut his support to only about 47 per cent of the total number of registered voters.

In the three previous referenda since De Gaulle returned to power in 1958, the percentage of "yes" votes had never dropped below 75 per cent of the valid ballots. And his percentage of support from the total electorate had never dropped below 56 per cent.

De Gaulle was secluded at his country home in eastern France, and gave no immediate indication of his reaction to the balloting.

But Premier George Pompidou, who is as close as anyone to De Gaulle's thoughts, issued a statement early Monday saying "the President felt that the majority should be neither mediocre, nor doubtful. I do not think these two adjectives could be applied to the results."

For Kennedy and the Democratic candidates he supports, the development of the last few hours seem likely to turn the Cuban issue, as it has been called, into an asset rather than a liability in the final days of the campaign. So far as Kennedy is concerned it could erase, at least in part, GOP-inspired charges that by what his critics call timidity and indecisiveness the President doomed to failure the 1961 invasion of Cuba.

Citing this, Republicans obviously had been making political inroads with their demands that Kennedy "do something" about Cuba. They got their answer with a blaring presidential action that brought the country closer to the brink of war than at any time

Khrush Reports U.S. Plane Over Russ Territory

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev told President Kennedy a U.S. plane flew over Soviet soil Sunday opposite Alaska and warned that in these tense days it easily might be mistaken for a nuclear bomber.

"And that," he added, "can push us toward a fatal step."

Khrushchev indicated, however, that he did not consider the new case a provocation and that he accepted the U.S. explanation of an earlier incident Aug. 30. In the earlier case, Washington said a U2 was blown off course when it flew over Sakhalin Island.

(Kennedy in a message to Khrushchev said the plane that violated Soviet air space Sunday was a U2 on an air sampling mission in connection with Soviet nuclear tests. He said the pilot made a serious navigational error and added: "I regret this incident and will see to it that every precaution is taken to prevent recurrence.")

The premier's report of the new plane incident was contained in a note to Kennedy accepting the President's demand that work on rocket bases in Cuba be halted and the weapons withdrawn.

Noting the August incident, Khrushchev said: "An even more dangerous case occurred on Oct. 28 when your reconnaissance aircraft intruded into the territory of the Soviet Union in the north, in the area of the Chukotski Peninsula, and flew over our territory."

Chukotski Peninsula lies opposite Alaska across Bering Strait, and is far to the northeast of Sakhalin Island.

Khrushchev warned the President that flights over the Soviet Union are dangerous and asked him to consider the responsibility for such a flight.

"I would like to ask you," he said, "to assess this correctly and take steps accordingly, so that it would not serve as a provocation to the unleashing of war."

Mrs. FDR Seriously Ill, Outlook Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said Sunday the former First Lady continues to be seriously ill and "the outlook for the future is still uncertain."

"Unfortunately, she has not responded to treatment as well as it was hoped she would," the spokesman said.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 78, returned home from a hospital 10 days ago and had been undergoing treatment there for anemia and a lung infection. Only members of her family have been allowed to visit her.

Nehru Agrees India Must Get American Arms

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru finally has agreed with his generals that only a massive volume of American arms can turn aside the Red Chinese threat to Indian independence, authoritative sources said Sunday, as Communist troops opened a fierce new border attack.

Nehru is no longer worried about compromising his long-cherished nonalignment policy in the cold war, informants said, and is personally consulting with top generals on both the arms supply problem and the tactical situation at the front.

Personally directing the defense ministry, he has pushed aside Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, who blocked the generals' efforts a year ago to turn to the United States for weapons.

Despite reports that Menon has resigned, the leftist defense minister still holds his job, but in name only, officials said.

In his first public statement in days, Menon said, "We will procure the equipment from wherever we can. But it is best to depend on India's own efforts."

Menon flew to Leh, army headquarters in Ladakh, and Srinagar in Kashmir to confer on the military situation in the western sector.

On the frontier, a defense spokesman said a post was lost when overwhelming numbers of Chinese opened an attack at Demchok in southern Ladakh on the western end of the Himalayan border.

Fighting was continuing there and the Chinese were bringing up more forces.

Demchok, more than 14,000 feet high, is close to the undefined border of Kashmir and the farthest south of any attack by the Chinese in the western sector.

On the northeastern border one clash—in which India suffered two casualties and the Chinese 20—was reported.

But the Chinese have been reported bringing up artillery through the high mountains and preparing for a drive that might have as its objective the pinching off of the entire plain of Assam. As a result of Indian unpreparedness revealed by the eight-day border attack, authoritative sources said Indian military thinking now is that it may be two or three painful years before the Chinese can be thrown out.

We won't know for certain until we have made a thorough study of data over a period of several days."

Saboteurs Dynamite Venezuela Oil Field

Bombings Blamed On Castro Followers

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Saboteurs believed to be followers of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro blew up four oil company power stations in Lake Maracaibo early Sunday, knocking out one-sixth of Venezuela's oil production. Venezuela is the world's leading oil exporter.

The bombs destroyed transformer stations of the Creole Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. A Creole spokesman said the entire Creole field in the oil-rich lake was rendered inoperable.

Authorities seized two men, believed to be the bombers, swimming in debris in the lake. Police said they believed a third man, the apparent ringleader, was killed when one of the explosions blew up the saboteurs' boat.

Police said they think one of the bombers was a Creole employee because of the expertness with which the saboteurs knocked out the field.

Eighteen sticks of dynamite failed to explode at one of the power stations in the Tijuana field near Cabimas, a town on the northeast shore of Lake Maracaibo. The lake, about 300 miles west of Caracas, is roughly 75 miles wide and 130 miles long and holds beneath its waters one of the world's richest stores of oil.

The Creole spokesman said the bombs came before dawn and knocked out the transformers that convert the voltage powering the company's rigs in the lake, thus stopping Creole's daily production of 525,000 barrels of oil. In all, Venezuela produces about 3 million barrels a day, most for export.

The spokesman said it would take at least a month to get the field back into full production. In the meantime, however, the company has enough crude oil stored to meet its international obligations, the spokesman said.

President Romulo Betancourt summoned ministers to an emergency meeting to plan stricter security measures to guard Venezuela's oil fields, the primary source of the nation's wealth.

The bombers struck only a few hours after Betancourt announced that he had authorized mobilization of the Venezuelan armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

State Department sources disclosed this said the Havana message was sent in code before saboteurs blew up four oil company power stations at Lake Maracaibo, temporarily knocking out one-sixth of Venezuelan oil production. There was no immediate word on whether the State Department had relayed any warning to Venezuela before the saboteurs attacked the power stations. But a department spokesman said U.S. concern over potential subversive activity engineered by Cubans has been communicated to all Latin American countries, including Venezuela.

Trade Talks Open

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A six-man trade delegation from the United Arab Republic has opened talks with the Indian government. The U.A.R. wants to buy more tea, railway equipment, chemicals and drugs while India buys cotton, rice and other staples from the U.A.R.

Castro has said in the past that Cuba would never attempt to claim the base except by what he called legal means.

The Cuban prime minister said the nonaggression guarantees that President Kennedy has made will have no value unless the United States gives up Guantanamo, stops its naval quarantine, stops alleged violations of Cuban air and water space and brings an end to hit-and-run raids on Cuba's shipping and coastline.

Castro charged the raids and other subversive activities "are carried out from the territory of the United States and from some accomplice countries." Meanwhile, Havana radio continued to report details of Cuba's defense preparations. Citizens were urged to train themselves in first aid techniques as rapidly as possible.

Soviet Boss Will Remove Cuba Rockets

Agrees To Let U. N. Representatives
Verify Dismantling

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev announced Sunday he has ordered Soviet officers in Cuba to stop work on rocket bases there and crate up their missiles and ship them home.

To the surprise of Washington's Pentagon officials he also announced a previous order had gone out to quit working on the bases. Only Saturday construction of the bases was reported proceeding full blast.

So there may be no doubt of the liquidation of the bases, Khrushchev said he was ready to agree "that representatives of the U.N. may verify the dismantling of these means." He also called upon the President to end the blockade of Cuba.

All this was in a letter to President Kennedy that was read twice in its entirety by a Moscow radio announcer. A copy, it was said, went to U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations.

JFK's Statement Broadcast

Moscow radio promptly broadcast President Kennedy's statement that Khrushchev's action was a "statesmanlike" contribution to peace. The broadcast also quoted Prime Minister Fidel Castro as saying he would cooperate in bringing about a negotiated settlement of the Cuban crisis. It did not mention Castro's demand that the United States give up its naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Khrushchev did not mention his Saturday proposal of a "Cuba for Turkey" swap involving liquidation of Soviet rocket bases in Turkey.

But he snapped up the President's suggestion that relations between the NATO alliance and the Soviet bloc's Warsaw Pact be taken up later.

Khrushchev said he would like to discuss "regulation of relations between NATO and the nations of the Warsaw Pact" and a number of other questions as well, including general disarmament, a thermonuclear weapons ban—and U.S. reconnaissance flights over Soviet territory.

"More Dangerous" Instance

"An even more dangerous" instance occurred only Sunday, he said, when a reconnaissance plane flew over the Chukotski Peninsula, the Soviet territory nearest Alaska. He asked that such flights over the Soviet Union and surveillance flights over Cuba be stopped.

Khrushchev warned that the Soviet people "are not divesting ourselves of the responsibility of granting help to the Cuban people" and said violations of Cuban air space could have "dangerous consequences."

He indicated Moscow was concerned lest harm befall Soviet officers, instructors and technicians working in Cuba.

Khrushchev said he is calling off the Soviet military buildup in Cuba "to liquidate with greater speed the dangerous conflict, to serve the cause of peace . . . and to calm the American people."

The Soviet installations are no longer necessary, he said, because of President Kennedy's offer of assurances Saturday against an invasion of Cuba.

Khrushchev again avoided saying outright that the Soviet Union was installing rockets in Cuba. But his language left no doubt what he meant.

Khrush To Abandon Bases "Step Back From Danger," Kennedy Says

Tension Falls After Historic Letter Swap

Military Buildup Continues Pending Deeds, Not Words

U Thant Will Go To Cuba For Parley With Castro

U.N. Official Accepts Bid From Fidel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant announced Sunday he will go to Cuba at Prime Minister Fidel Castro's invitation to discuss the Cuban crisis. A U.N. spokesman said he expects to leave Tuesday.

Thant acted swiftly in advance of receipt here of Premier Khrushchev's announced order to stop work on Soviet weapon sites in Cuba and to dismantle and ship the weapons home. The broadcast from Moscow sent Thant hurrying into a round of new conferences.

As broadcast by Moscow radio, Khrushchev agreed to U.N. inspection of the dismantling operation. One urgent task of Thant would be to arrange for the inspection.

Thant handed his letter of acceptance to Cuban Chief Delegate Mario Garcia-Inchausti as he continued talks here looking toward a final settlement of the crisis.

Thant Hopeful Of Solution
The letter said Thant hopes his Havana discussions will produce a solution "by which the principle of respect for the sovereignty of Cuba would be assured."

Thant wrote Castro that he hopes the solution will make it possible "for action which would reassure other countries which have felt themselves threatened by recent developments in Cuba."

Thant's letter replied to a message Saturday from Castro, who agreed to stop construction of installation of missile bases in Cuba provided that the United States lift its blockade.

The U.N. spokesman said these would include U.N. undersecretaries Omar Loufi of the United Arab Republic and Hernani Tavares de Sa of Brazil and Thant's military advisor, Indian Brig Jit Rikhye.

U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson, after an hour's conference with Thant, told newsmen the secretary-general is "ready for all eventualities" that might arise from Premier Khrushchev's announced order to stop work on Soviet weapon sites in Cuba and ship the weapons home.

Stevenson had read the Moscow radio announcement on a news wire at his mission and hurried across the street to talk it over with Thant. He declined comment on the order, because, he said, neither he nor Thant yet had the official text of Khrushchev's letter reporting his decision to President Kennedy.

Saboteurs Dynamite Venezuela Oil Field

Bombings Blamed On Castro Followers

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Saboteurs believed to be followers of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro blew up four oil company power stations in Lake Maracaibo early Sunday, knocking out one-sixth of Venezuela's oil production. Venezuela is the world's leading oil exporter.

The bombs destroyed transformer stations of the Creole Petroleum Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey. A Creole spokesman said the entire Creole field in the oil-rich lake was rendered inoperable.

Authorities seized two men, believed to be the bombers, swimming in debris in the lake. Police said they believed a third man, the apparent ringleader, was killed when one of the explosions blew up the saboteurs' boat.

Police said they think one of the bombers was a Creole employee because of the expertness with which the saboteurs knocked out the field.

Eighteen sticks of dynamite failed to explode at one of the power stations in the Tijuana field near Cabimas, a town on the northeast shore of Lake Maracaibo. The lake, about 300 miles west of Caracas, is roughly 75 miles wide and 130 miles long and holds beneath its waters one of the world's richest stores of oil.

The Creole spokesman said the blasts came before dawn and knocked out the transformers that convert the voltage powering the company's rigs in the lake, thus stopping Creole's daily production of 525,000 barrels of oil. In all, Venezuela produces about 3 million barrels a day, most for export.

The spokesman said it would take at least a month to get the field back into full production. In the meantime, however, the company has enough crude oil stored to meet its international obligations, the spokesman said.

President Romulo Betancourt summoned ministers to an emergency meeting to plan stricter security measures to guard Venezuela's oil fields, the primary source of the nation's wealth.

The bombers struck only a few hours after Betancourt announced that he had authorized mobilization of the Venezuelan armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

Sabotage Order Heard By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Latin American diplomats Sunday the United States had detected the Havana radio signal instructing local Communists in Venezuela to take action against the Venezuelan oil fields.

State Department sources disclosed this said the Havana message was sent in code before saboteurs blew up four oil company power stations at Lake Maracaibo, temporarily knocking out one-sixth of Venezuelan oil production.

There was no immediate word on whether the State Department had relayed any warning to Venezuela before the saboteurs attacked the power stations. But a department spokesman said U.S. concern over potential subversive activity engineered by Cubans has been communicated to all Latin American countries, including Venezuela.

Trade Talks Open

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A six-man trade delegation from the United Arab Republic has opened talks with the Indian government. The U.A.R. wants to buy more tea, railway equipment, chemicals and drugs while India buys cotton, rice and other staples from the U.A.R.

Soviet Boss Will Remove Cuba Rockets

Agrees To Let U. N. Representatives Verify Dismantling

MOSCOW (AP)— Premier Khrushchev announced Sunday he has ordered Soviet officers in Cuba to stop work on rocket bases there and crate up their missiles and ship them home.

To the surprise of Washington's Pentagon officials he also announced a previous order had gone out to quit working on the bases. Only Saturday construction of the bases was reported proceeding full blast.

So there may be no doubt of the liquidation of the bases, Khrushchev said he was ready to agree "that representatives of the U.N. may verify the dismantling of these means." He also called upon the President to end the blockade of Cuba.

All this was in a letter to President Kennedy that was read twice in its entirety by a Moscow radio announcer. A copy, it was said, went to U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations.

JFK's Statement Broadcast

Moscow radio promptly broadcast President Kennedy's statement that Khrushchev's action was a "statesmanlike" contribution to peace. The broadcast also quoted Prime Minister Fidel Castro as saying he would cooperate in bringing about a negotiated settlement of the Cuban crisis. It did not mention Castro's demand that the United States give up its naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Khrushchev did not mention his Saturday proposal of a "Cuba for Turkey" swap involving liquidation of NATO rocket bases in Turkey.

But he snapped up the President's suggestion that relations between the NATO alliance and the Soviet bloc's Warsaw Pact be taken up later.

Khrushchev said he would like to discuss "regulation of relations between NATO and the nations of the Warsaw Pact" and a number of other questions as well, including general disarmament, a thermonuclear weapons ban—and U.S. reconnaissance flights over Soviet territory.

"More Dangerous" Instance

"An even more dangerous" instance occurred only Sunday, he said, when a reconnaissance plane flew over the Chukotski Peninsula, the Soviet territory nearest Alaska. He asked that such flights over the Soviet Union and surveillance flights over Cuba be stopped.

Khrushchev warned that the Soviet people "are not divesting themselves of the responsibility of granting help to the Cuban people" and said violations of Cuban air space could have "dangerous consequences."

He indicated Moscow was concerned lest harm befall Soviet officers, instructors and technicians working in Cuba.

Khrushchev said he is calling off the Soviet military buildup in Cuba "to liquidate with greater speed the dangerous conflict, to serve the cause of peace . . . and to calm the American people."

The Soviet installations are no longer necessary, he said, because of President Kennedy's offer of assurances Saturday against an invasion of Cuba.

Khrushchev again avoided saying outright that the Soviet Union was installing rockets in Cuba. But his language left no doubt what he meant.

ADA Puts 'Do-Nothing' Label On Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Democratic Action accused Congress Sunday of non-performance at its recent session. It blamed President Kennedy, congressional leaders, aged senators and crotchety representatives.

The ADA, advocate of what it terms liberal causes, said in a supplement to its official publication, ADA World, that Congress passed only one piece of major legislation "attuned to the world crisis"—the Foreign Trade Expansion Act.

An editorial accompanying the voting record of senators and House members praised President Kennedy for his perception and understanding of the nature of the times and said this understanding was reflected in almost all of his legislative proposals.

"Unfortunately," the editorial said, "this recognition has not been matched by resolute follow-up. Where it has—as in the case of the foreign trade expansion bill—it has borne fruit."

The ADA said the President is not getting the support of the older and more powerful Democrats. It added he could succeed in infusing new blood into Congress unless the true story of its record is brought to the people.

Looking ahead to the new Congress starting in January, the ADA said the first order of business should be liberalizing of the Senate rule to make it easier to choke off filibusters and limiting the power of the House Rules Committee.

Most people of the world spend half their disposable income for food. Americans spend only 20 per cent, and get a better diet with more built-in service.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johns Hopkins University students were among those who picketed the White House Saturday protesting President Kennedy's blockade of Cuba.

A number of Hopkins students blocked university roadways in an effort to keep picketers from leaving, but lifted the blocks after about an hour when reminded by a university spokesman that the school's policy is to permit free expression of opinions.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — University of Maryland fraternities paid $30 apiece to finance construction of a float, exhibited in Saturday's homecoming festivities, that took a slap at the executive dean for student life.

The float, in the design of a large octopus wearing a mortarboard, was aimed at B. James Borreson, executive dean who cracked down last year on consumption of alcohol at fraternities on the Maryland campus.

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — It was corn picking time Saturday, and some 5,000 Masons turned out to help pick it at the Mason's home for the aged, Bonnie Blink.

The group, including Alonzo D. Naylor, 101, had the corn picked in short order at the annual event, which also honored Naylor as the oldest member at the home.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A study that challenged the efficacy of pay increases for teachers has been challenged by the president of the Maryland Council on Education.

The report, made by the Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy, was criticized as not being made in enough depth. Robert Moyer, who addressed the quarterly meeting of the council, said the commission report not only was misleading but unfair. Moyer said Marylanders would have to decide if they wanted teachers in the classrooms or just baby sitters keeping order. He said teachers would not stay if the salary was insufficient, since they could get better paying jobs in industry and teaching in neighboring states.

Three Firemen Hurt In Blaze

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three firemen were injured Sunday night as some 30 pieces of apparatus battled a 12-alarm blaze in a vacant paper company building in downtown Baltimore.

One of the injured firefighters was in a snorkel spraying water on the front of the burning six-story brick structure when a sudden gust of air forced flames out for some 30 feet, engulfing him.

The fireman was identified as Patrick Walsh (of 2512 Ruscombe Lane), father of four children. He was burned about the face and hands, but his condition was listed as satisfactory.

Some 25 firemen narrowly escaped injury when a side wall of the structure collapsed without warning, crashing to the sidewalk and crushing two tractor-trailer trucks parked alongside the building.

83,462,107 Are Eligible To Vote On November 6

WASHINGTON (AP) — A total of 83,462,107 persons are estimated to be qualified to vote in the Nov. 6 elections, according to official and unofficial figures gathered in the 50 states.

This is an increase of 6,817,572 over the last midterm election of 1958. But it is more than a million under the 84,785,131 reported eligible for the 1960 presidential election.

State election officials, party leaders and qualified newsmen have estimated for The Associated Press that despite voter apathy in some states 54,253,100, or 65 per cent of the eligible voters, may actually vote this time.

This estimate appears too high in view of the fact that it is 6.3 million more than the turnout in 1958. Also, there is a question whether the Cuban crisis will bring out a big vote or add to the normal stay at home.

A more conservative vote estimate is that of the Census Bureau. It says about 47.6 million Americans will cast ballots this time if the pattern of the 1958 election is repeated. The bureau lists about 118.8 million as old enough to vote, including 2.1 million military personnel.

All persons of voting age must qualify on other counts, however, under state laws. Voting age is 21 and over in all states except Georgia and Kentucky, where it is 18; Alaska, where it is 19, and Hawaii, 20.

Most states reporting in the AP survey showed larger numbers of persons qualified to vote this year than in 1958. Of course, with a growing population more persons reach voting age from election to election.

"Extra" Published By Baltimore Sun

BALTIMORE, (AP) — The Baltimore Sun papers put an "extra" on the streets Sunday morning on the streets Sunday morning Premier Khrushchev's apparent willingness to pull out of Cuba. The edition is the first in over 20 years.

Managing Editor Charles H. Dorsey Jr. said it was at least the first "extra" put out since 1941. He remarked that the paper did not "seem to be able to get itself together to get an 'extra' on the streets before its regular edition the day Pearl Harbor was bombed."

Tension Falls

Kennedy spoke to carry out the Soviet withdrawal and halt the U.S. quarantine of Cuba will be defined at those sessions.

Salingier said he did not know whether work had actually stopped at the Soviet bases in Cuba.

After releasing the text of Kennedy's expedited reply to Khrushchev, the White House disclosed that the chief executive consulted with the three living former presidents—Herbert Hoover, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower—before composing the letter.

In his letter to Khrushchev, Kennedy paid tribute to Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. He said U Thant's "distinguished efforts" had "greatly facilitated" the tasks of both himself and Khrushchev. U Thant late Sunday accepted a Cuban invitation to go to Havana to discuss the crisis with Castro.

Kennedy Saturday night told Khrushchev the United States would end its weapons blockade of Cuba and give assurances that neither this country nor any other nation of the Western Hemisphere would invade Cuba—this in return for a prompt Soviet pullout and a stop to shipment of any more offensive weapons.

Kennedy told Khrushchev Sunday that both Soviets and Americans wish to pursue their "great unfinished tasks" from the fear of war. They can then proceed to use modern science and technology, he said, to achieve goals "beyond anything that could have been dreamed of a few decades ago."

The chief executive suggested that as the two governments devote "urgent attention" to disarmament they should attach priority to questions raised by the spirit of nuclear weapons on the earth and in space and to attain a nuclear test ban. But he said they also should work hard on "wider measures of disarmament" which may be put into effect soon.

Ann Landers...

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm he didn't need to have his wife writing in response to the young nurse who wrote to you from the delivery room of a hospital. The nurse expressed sorrow for the little unwed mothers who were having such a rough time.

For every little unwed mother walking around there is an unwed father. But nobody even lifts an eyebrow at THEM. They are free to wander at will with no stigma, no shame, and no responsibility. They don't have to leave school, walk with a bowed head, or drop out of sight.

It is a biological impossibility for a girl to get into trouble alone. For this project she needs help. Who are these punks whose sole concern is pleasure and self-gratification? Who are these unconscionable characters who make a game of sullying some girl's maidenhood? Where does the blame lie?

The blame lies squarely on the shoulders of the parents who failed to teach their sons that a girl is not a plaything and that self-control is part of being manly and honorable. I hope you will put this letter in your own words and print it for millions to see.

DEAR PAST 70: Your words are quite good enough, my friend. Only the Bible has said it better. "Raise up a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We moved to this city five months ago. The move meant an important promotion for my husband. The city we now live in is the company's headquarters.

I am 28, attractive, and the mother of three children. My husband and I have never had any serious troubles—until now. The top man in this organization has taken a liking to me. He is in his 40s, good-looking, sophisticated and married. This outfit has more social get-togethers than I have ever heard of. The boss always invites me to sit next to him and makes quite a fuss over me. Whenever there is music he dances my feet off. I try to be nice, but not too nice, if you know what I mean.

Last night after a social evening with the big shots, my husband blew his top. He told me

I feel terrible about this and I have no idea how to handle the problem. Can you help?

JUNIOR EXECUTIVE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: This story is as old as the gray flannel suit. Since you realize your husband resents the attention the big boss is paying you, why not cut down the voltage on your responses? Be pleasant—but not TOO pleasant, if you know what I mean.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a close friend who considers herself socially correct in everything. The other day I was at her home and, for the fiftieth time, she asked if I would like a cup of coffee? This habit of hers has always gripped me, so I decided to speak up.

I told her that a hostess isn't supposed to ASK a guest if she wants refreshments. She should go ahead and serve something. This friend informed me some people don't want refreshments and it makes no sense to go ahead without asking first.

Who is right?—WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: When a hostess asks a guest if he would like refreshments she puts the burden on the guest, which is impolite. Some guests would enjoy refreshments but they hesitate to say so because they don't wish to put the hostess to the trouble. The gracious hostess has refreshments prepared and she serves them.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Copyright 1962, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Beautiful Blush Or Feverish Flush?

Applied rightly, rouge enhances eye socket; the circles that will result are aging.

Never place it below the nose line (you can establish this by placing your forefinger on a diagonal line just below the nose and across the cheek toward the tip of your ear). This makes the mature woman look older, the teenager excited.

Never extend rouge inward beyond a direct line with the pupil of the eye as you look straight ahead. Placed nearer the nose, rouge has the effect of broadening it or lengthening it, and of making the eyes seem closer together.

Never apply rouge as a circular dab of color—this looks artificial. Far better is the soft, widening triangle that blends without any line of demarcation whatsoever.

It takes practice to establish the right and avoid the wrong, but you'll quickly see how much the right shade and the right placement of rouge can improve your appearance.

1963 Heart Campaign Quota Set

The quota for the 1963 Heart Fund campaign has been set at $23,833, according to Dr. G. O. Himmelwright, president of the Allegheny-Garrett County Heart Association.

The quota was set at a recent meeting of the association's budget and finance committee, headed by James W. Bishop and including Robert J. Brown, Albert A. Helmick and Charles E. Bramble.

Dr. Himmelwright said the quota was set on the basis of the following needs: research and field services, $9,533; professional education, $1,811; public education, $1,671.50; community services, $8,010; fund raising, $1,227.50; and administration, $1,580.

Bishop stated that the Heart Association conducts its independent Heart Fund drive each year, and depends solely on voluntary workers and givers.

Since heart disease is the nation's No. 1 killer, the Heart Association feels that the dedicated efforts of the workers is for the sole purpose of finding the causes and cures of heart disease, and its more than 30 cardiovascular diseases which come under the Heart Association program.

A 'Step Back
From Danger'

The United States apparently has won a major victory in the Cold War with Premier Khrushchev's announcement yesterday that he has ordered the dismantling of all missile bases in Cuba, under United Nations supervision. If this eventually comes to pass, and the prospects seem good, then it may be something much more important than a Cold War victory.

It could be made into a real "step back from danger," as President Kennedy called it in his reply to Mr. Khrushchev. Runaway optimism always is out of place in international affairs, especially with the Soviet Union on the other side, but it is not beyond possibility that the peaceful extirpation of the Soviet threat in Cuba could be the first step toward meaningful disarmament negotiations.

The possibility now is that talks between Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev could lead to some kind of new understanding, now that the Soviet Premier has learned, we hope for good, that the United States will respond vigorously to any real challenge, even if the response involves a serious risk of nuclear war. Whatever negotiations follow the dismantling of the Cuban bases, there is room for hope that the outcome could be to put the disarmament talks on a real and practical basis. Up to now, there has been an air of unreality about these conferences.

Somewhat ironically, the Soviet embassy's report of the text of the first Soviet comment on the President's speech of last Monday night arrived here almost simultaneously with the reports of Mr. Khrushchev's promise to dismantle the Cuban bases. Among the things the Soviet statement said was this: "The United States demands that military equipment Cuba needs for self-defense be removed from Cuban territory, a demand which, naturally, no state which values its independence can meet."

Well, we shall see.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is A Blockade?

In international relations, there is no such formality as a quarantine except for hoof and mouth disease, mallepox and similar abominations. What President Kennedy did was to institute a blockade of Cuba and let us call a spade a spade.

A blockade is an act of war, but there have been different methods and different attitudes about it. For instance in 1914, the State Department held:

"The existence of war between foreign governments does not suspend trade or commerce between this country and those at war. This right to continue to trade with belligerents is upheld by the well-recognized principles of international law . . ."

One of the most important amenities of a blockade is that there must be notice. This undoubtedly explains the pains that President Kennedy took to make the blockade of Cuba known to the world. The rule on the subject is:

"If a neutral vessel attempting to enter a blockaded port has had notice of the blockade in any way, she shall be captured and sent in for adjudication; but should formal notice not have been given, the rule of constructive knowledge arising from notoriety should be construed in a manner liberal to the neutral."

A blockade must be limited to the ports of the enemy. In the case of Cuba, there was no war, but a threat of war; no enemy, but the assumption that a foreign power had taken control of Cuba for inimical purposes. Yet that foreign power, Soviet Russia, had not been declared to be an enemy. At most, the President had pronounced its officials to be liars, but a liar is not necessarily an enemy. This explains the use of the term quarantine for this particular blockade.

In May 1915 . . . The Department of State instructed the Ambassador in Rome to inform the Italian Foreign Office that it appeared that the coasts of a non-combatant had been declared blockaded and that the Adriatic had virtually been declared a closed sea; that in the opinion of the United States there was no authority in international law or usage for this action . . .

The United States has, in effect, in the present blockade, shut the Caribbean off from the rest of the world. But at this time, such weapons exist as the world has not known before and it is essential that this country defend itself from the use of these weapons against her.

Heretofore, it had been assumed that the Russians possessed weapons which they could employ from their own soil to damage the United States. However, it appears that the Russians need to depend upon weapons outside of Russia to bury us. They have therefore established a base 90 miles from our coast with the object of firing weapons at us to destroy our principal cities.

This being so, the United States would indeed be governed by morons not to take strong measures to defend this country from such losses. The only possible criticism of the President's action is that he waited overly long, but no man wants to bring on a nuclear war if there are other ways. Neither the President nor anyone else could tell in advance what the effect of a blockade would be.

It is interesting to note that when during World War I, the Allied governments proposed to blockade Communist Russia, the State Department held:

"A blockade before a state of war exists is not of the question. It could not be recognized by this government."

In 1962 it is recognized that a peculiar state of war does exist between Soviet Russia and the United States, the "Cold War." It is a war for position which does not include belligerence. As such a war is unknown in technical international relations, it has to be conducted without rules. There is a war, but no enemy in a technical sense.

Perhaps John Foster Dulles best described it as on the brink of war and a new word, brinkmanship, came into the language. The fact is that it has been constant from about 1947-1948. It has been nerve-racking, costly, and has impeded the liquidation of World War II. It has been a horrible experience in history.

Thus, if the Cold War can exist, a blockade can be employed without a declared enemy. But if, to be punctiliously right, we need an enemy, we can call him Soviet Russia.

Khrushchev Won't Risk World War Over Cuba

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—A war scare isn't always easy to deflate, but it isn't necessary to succumb to fears when indubitable facts point the other way.

For if there is one thing that is plain about the world situation today in contrast to any other period in history, it is that a nuclear stalemate exists now which restrains the two major powers from destroying one another.

The two world wars of this century came about because there was no balance of power such as prevails today. One side—the Kaiser in 1914 and Hitler in 1939—was really in each instance stronger militarily than the other side. Also, the assumption in Berlin on both occasions was that the United States either wouldn't enter the war at all, or that its help would come too late to affect the result.

Today there is a balance of terror, and what has happened in respect to Cuba doesn't alter the over-all situation in any way. For Nikita Khrushchev isn't going to risk the lives of millions in the Soviet Union in order to help Castro save face. The people of the Soviet Union still remember their battle casualties in the Second World War—amounting to at least 7,500,000. The surviving relatives are numerous. If there's any one thing certain, it is that the Soviet people will not wish Mr. Khrushchev to start a war, and he will not throw any bombs unless they are thrown at his people. It is equally certain that the United States will not start a war or throw any bombs at the Soviet people unless this country has been attacked or there is a certainty that it will be.

For all practical purposes, the stalemate will continue for a long, long time. What confuses many people, and understandably, too, is the fact that bluffing in international policy has not become outmoded. The dangers of miscalculation are always theoretically present. It is often asked:

"But supposing somebody pulls the trigger by mistake?"

The answer is that it takes more than one man to make a decision of such importance either in Moscow or in Washington, and the people who surround any commander-in-chief nowadays know the consequences to them and their families if a mistake is not prevented.

Bluffing is, of course, a risky business. But the man who is doing the bluffing—Premier Khrushchev in this case—knows the limits of such tactics. Once the other side shows resoluteness, the bluffing tends to become less significant.

Thus, it may well be that President Kennedy's vacillation on the Cuban issue in recent months wrongly gave the Soviets an impression or irresoluteness in the White House. But whatever inferences were drawn from this unfortunate period, the President has exhibited a positiveness and a firmness beginning with his speech last Monday night that now can hardly be misconstrued anywhere.

The waiting period in itself could be regarded as constructive, except for one thing—the missile bases in Cuba already functioning which a reckless Castro could use. That's the real danger to this country and it ought to be removed. There are two ways to do it—one is by using our bombers to wipe out the missile bases, and the other is by pressure on Cuba through Moscow, which could be brought about by the influence of the United Nations.

The important point is that the bases have to be dismantled. They cannot be left as a means by which Castro or anybody else can attempt to blackmail the United States.

The turning back of certain Communist-bloc ships now on the ocean—doubtless by orders from Moscow—is a healthy sign. It proves that the Soviets aren't interested in "escalating" the situation still further and would prefer to wait and see what happens in Cuba itself. Castro can be sacrificed at any time by Khrushchev, and even if the missile bases were destroyed by force, the Soviet Union would logically do no more than issue propaganda protests. A world war to save Castro wouldn't be justified in the eyes of the Soviet people.

There is always the risk that the American policy may be weakened in appearance by a let-down in any of the measures of defense already taken. The deployment of ships and Marines around Cuba and the maintenance of the "quarantine" or blockade are all necessary, at least until the missile bases are dismantled either voluntarily by Castro or otherwise.

The present outlook here is for firmness in America's policy, and that's the surest way to prevent a world war. Had such firmness been displayed by the Western European governments in the 1930s, as mentioned often in these dispatches and as stressed last Monday night by President Kennedy in his television speech, there might never have been any World War II.

C. Smith, under cover of a transmitting letter from Sen. Richard Nixon, Senator Nixon informed the Embassy that Mr. Smith is a highly respected member of his community and that the Senator would appreciate anything the Embassy might be able to do to assist him in his problem. There is enclosed a copy of Mr. Smith's letter referred to above.

The Smith letter told how he had been dining at the Sans Souci Night Club, one of the hottest gambling casinos in the Old Batista days, and lost some money playing "cubolo." Mr. Smith did not inform the Embassy how much he lost, but this writer has obtained a copy of his check and can report that it was $4200.

Smith did report to the Embassy that he had stopped payment on his check. He told the Embassy that he understood the game cubolo was illegal in Cuba and asked the Embassy to answer a long list of questions including: "Is the game legal? Would the courts of Cuba render a judgment for the night club? Is the game considered fair gambling? Do you have any information indicating that the game is not honestly conducted?"

Cubolo Is Legal

When a U. S. Senator takes the trouble to write a letter to an American Embassy, he gets service. And the Embassy went to a lot of trouble regarding Smith's gambling debt. It obtained an opinion from a competent attorney in Havana, which read as follows:

"I have noted with interest the letter addressed to the American Embassy on the problem outlined by Mr. Smith. Aside from the personal element involved, namely, human frailty which leads men to try to get something for nothing and which in gambling games of all kinds leads to disappointment generally, I will try to answer the questions contained therein:

"Is the game in question legal under the laws of Cuba? I would say yes.

"Would the courts of Cuba render judgment for the club in an action brought here against a Cuban resident on a check so issued? Just as in a gambling place in Las Vegas or Reno, the courts of Cuba would render judgment for the club.

"Is the game considered fair gambling? I cannot answer this as I do not know. I know of no game in which the player has a reasonable chance to win substantially."

The legal opinion continued at great length for the benefit of Senator Nixon's fund collector.

Ambassador Wants Speed

An inquiry from a Senator merits careful attention, and even after this legal opinion was sent to the State Department, the American Embassy on Sept. 29 sent another report to Washington which began:

"It is believed sufficient for the present that the Embassy acknowledge directly to Mr. Dana C. Smith at his address in Pasadena the receipt of his letter of Aug. 21, 1952, and convey to him in general terms its comment on the four points raised by Mr. Smith, along the following lines:

"The embassy then reported that Cubolo is legal in Havana, that the gambling casino had the protection of the law, that the American Embassy had no information regarding gambling odds in Cubolo, and finally that the Embassy was in "no position to offer observations as to the conduct of the game."

The letter was marked "cleared" with Mr. Wellman, Mr. Loveland and Ambassador Beaulac.

However, this didn't end the matter. There is also in the Embassy files a memo from Paul J. Revey, the Consul General, to Mr. Wellman of the Embassy Staff, dated Sept. 29, stating: "Mr. Wellman . . . said that it was the Ambassador's wish that a reply be sent as soon as possible and, if possible, that afternoon."

That was how important a gambling debt to the American Embassy when Richard Nixon was involved, and how the Embassy spent its time when it should have been trying to head off Castroism.

The interesting thing is what happened to the head of the Sans Souci Night Club who tried to collect his debt from Dana Smith. It's an important revelation which will be told in a future column.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

July was hot and long in 1956. At Parris Island, it went on forever because Sergeant Matthew McKeon was being court-martialed. He had marched his lax platoon into swamps, and six recruits drowned. It was night and the tide was high, the current was strong, and some could not swim.

Ordinarily, a court martial requires a day. Or two. In this case, everyone around the U. S. Marine base, except the non-commissioned officers, thought that McKeon should get 20 years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge. Simple. It might have gone that way except for a man named Emile Zola Berman.

Berman was a bald head and jug ears framing a wreathy smile. A New York judge named James McNally had interested Berman in the McKeon court martial. So Berman, on his own time and with his own money, arrived at Parris Island to talk to the prisoner, McKeon said: "I was in charge and I made a mistake. I should be punished."

Emile Zola Berman took the case. He walked into a military court with several strikes against him. He was a civilian. He was a slick lawyer from New York. He was a Jew. I watched him run uphill. He made it. By the afternoon of the first day, he had disarmed the array of judges by his manners, his gallantry, his knowledge of courts-martial procedure, and by his amiable disposition toward hostile witnesses.

I watched the cast iron court melt. Around the barracks, and over in Beaufort, the local gamblers stopped offering 5-to-1 that the sergeant would get 20 years. All the reporters began to send back to their home offices for old clippings on Berman. He had been an Air Force colonel in Burma in the war.

He was entitled to wear three medals, including the Distinguished Flying Cross. He had a wife and two children and lived in Roslyn Heights, Long Island. He was known, in New York, as a lawyer's lawyer. The thing which endeared him to the reporters was that he could make doll stories of his own early mistakes.

The sun never sets on Parris Island. It can be felt on a wet sheet at 3 a. m. The case went on, day after day, week after week. Berman made the judges forget McKeon. The Marine Corps, he said, was on trial. The system of training boots was the issue. One after another, he paraded sergeants to the stand and each one admitted that he had often disciplined a platoon by marching it, in full gear through the boondocks.

Before it was over, Berman had the Marine Corps Commandant on the stand, and also Lt. Gen. Chesty Puller, the hero of Peleliu. They not only testified, but backed the tough discipline of the drill instructors. When the verdict came in, Emile Zola Berman had not only won the admiration of the court, but he had infused new spirit in McKeon too.

Matt served 11 days. He was busted from rank. The Corps gave him a chance to get out, but he turned it down. "I'll stay," he said, "as a buck private." They transferred him to Cherry Point. Within a year, he was voted Marine of the Month. No amount of extra duty could make him blink those blue eyes, nor ruffle that skin haircut.

When he got out, he won an honorable discharge. On his way home to Massachusetts, he stopped in New York to thank Berman again. "What are you going to do?" the lawyer said. Matt shrugged. "Keep praying every day for the souls of those six kids," he said.

Berman had done a job which, in military jurisprudence, ranks with anything Clarence Darrow ever did and he did it—not for money—but because a judge had asked him to go south and interview a prisoner and see if he deserved counsel. Berman had returned home, picked up the hanging threads of cases he left in New York, and gone back to practice.

All that was six years ago. McKeon had not asked for Berman. Nor had Berman asked for McKeon. They made an ideal team. Since that time, I have lost sight of the principals in the case. Last week, I spoke to Emile Zola Berman. The voice sounded untouched by time.

We asked each other a lot of questions. Judge McNally, I learned, is now a judge on the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court. The Marine Corps Commandant has retired. A book has been written about Chesty Puller. Matt McKeon is a Massachusetts state milk inspector. Berman is running for district attorney in his home county.

"D.A.?" I said. Yes, he said. "I know a lot of writers who would vote for you," I said, "but they don't live in your county." "I'll return the compliment," he said. "When I'm elected, I won't try them for crimes they don't commit."

In achieving his world record of 174 hours balancing on a tight-rope, that agile Frenchman must also have set a new mark for doing the Twist.

Just released statistics show that in the year March 1960-March 1961, 35.5 million persons in the U. S. moved from one residence to another. Proof again that America is certainly on the go.

It's estimated U. S. filling stations give away more than 100 million road maps a year. And still there are some people who act as though they don't know where they are!

Changing Climate Doesn't Cure Any Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The warm, pleasant climate of the south and southwest has a strong attraction for ailing northerners, particularly the elderly and those with arthritis and disorders of the heart, lungs, or circulation. There are limitations to the value of changing climate, especially if it involves traveling long distances.

Air travel in modern, pressurized cabins is ideal for most of those who go south for their health. Long trips by car are tiresome for the aged and for men and women with cardiovascular disorders.

The commercial air lines will take anyone who can get on or off the plane without trouble but they cannot be expected to run an ambulance service or to jeopardize the trip for others. Anxiety about air travel is easily controlled with sedatives or tranquilizers and the chance of developing air sickness is minimal on large planes.

A trip of this type should not be undertaken by men and women in an advanced stage of the above mentioned diseases. They will get along better by remaining at home or in a hospital under the care of their own physician. The majority are too ill to enjoy the benefits of a warmer climate and the strain of travel is likely to aggravate their condition. The same applies to victims of stroke with severe damage to the brain; they do better at home or in an institution.

A different climate also requires acclimation, especially when the contrast is marked. People who spend the winter in the south should not return north until April, when the weather is warmer. The alternative is to stop for a few days in a moderate climate on the way home.

Changing climate does not cure any disease and spending the winter in Florida, along the gulf, or in Arizona or southern California does not mean the end of medical care or throwing caution to the winds. The sun still burns and swimming in cold water is harmful when the blood pressure is high or the old ticker is impaired.

TOMORROW: Asian flu predictions.

HAIR PHOBIA

Mrs. J. A. writes: What is the medical term for pulling out hair (in front of a mirror)? Is this a form of insanity?

REPLY

Trichotillomania is the habit of plucking hairs. It is called trichologia when it becomes a tic and carphologia when the individual unconsciously picks at this or that, including hair. The first is seen occasionally in the insane and the neurotic but is not necessary a sign of insanity.

SWELLING AFTER FRACTURE

M. F. writes: I'm home after six weeks in the hospital with a broken leg and am using a walker. I notice my knee and upper leg swell after I'm up and around for a while. Is this natural?

REPLY

Yes, especially if the swelling is close to the site of the fracture.

FUMIGATION AFTER CANCER

W. P. writes: Should an apartment where a cancer patient died be fumigated before moving in?

REPLY

No, even though viruses are the cause of some cancers. Viruses can exist only in living cells and cannot be transmitted from floors or walls.

CLOT PREVENTIVES

S. S. writes: Can anticoagulants be used as a preventive of heart attacks?

REPLY

Yes, but the risk of having blood that does not clot may be greater than having a heart attack. Let well enough alone.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

From Coach Buck O'Neill of Hamilton College comes a delectable football story of a climatic encounter years ago between Hamilton and its archrival, Colgate, in which the Colgate eleven was making damaging and consistent gains through the center of the Hamilton line. After the game, Coach O'Neill warmly praised Miller for his key role in Hamilton's last-minute victory. "Thank you for the kind words, Coach," replied Miller. "but I really don't deserve all the credit. You see, when I went in, Doyle never came out."

Not easily discouraged is a lady who moves in the highest circles in Long Island Society. A 'Step Back From Danger'

The United States apparently has won a major victory in the Cold War with Premier Khrushchev's announcement yesterday that he has ordered the dismantling of all missile bases in Cuba, under United Nations supervision. If this eventually comes to pass, and the prospects seem good, then it may be something much more important than a Cold War victory.

It could be made into a real "step back from danger," as President Kennedy called it in his reply to Mr. Khrushchev. Runaway optimism always is out of place in international affairs, especially with the Soviet Union on the other side, but it is not beyond possibility that the peaceful extirpation of the Soviet threat in Cuba could be the first step toward meaningful disarmament negotiations.

The possibility now is that talks between Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Khrushchev could lead to some kind of new understanding, now that the Soviet Premier has learned, we hope for good, that the United States will respond vigorously to any real challenge, even if the response involves a serious risk of nuclear war. Whatever negotiations follow the dismantling of the Cuban bases, there is room for hope that the outcome could be to put the disarmament talks on a real and practical basis. Up to now, there has been an air of unreality about these conferences.

Somewhat ironically, the Soviet embassy's report of the text of the first Soviet comment on the President's speech of last Monday night arrived here almost simultaneously with the reports of Mr. Khrushchev's promise to dismantle the Cuban bases. Among the things the Soviet statement said was this: "The United States demands that military equipment Cuba needs for self-defense be removed from Cuban territory, a demand which, naturally, no state which values its independence can meet."

Well, we shall see.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is A Blockade?

In international relations, there is no such formality as a quarantine except for hoof and mouth disease, mallepox and similar abominations. What President Kennedy did was to institute a blockade of Cuba and let us call a spade a spade.

A blockade is an act of war, but there have been different methods and different attitudes about it. For instance in 1914, the State Department held:

"... The existence of war between foreign governments does not suspend trade or commerce between this country and those at war. This right to continue to trade with belligerents is upheld by the well-recognized principles of international law."

One of the most important amenities of a blockade is that there must be notice. This undoubtedly explains the pains that President Kennedy took to make the blockade of Cuba known to the world. The rule on the subject is:

"If a neutral vessel attempting to enter a blockaded port has had notice of the blockade in any way, she shall be captured and sent in for adjudication; but should formal notice not have been given, the rule of constructive knowledge arising from notoriety should be construed in a manner liberal to the neutral."

A blockade must be limited to the ports of the enemy. In the case of Cuba, there was no war, but a threat of war; no enemy, but the assumption that a foreign power had taken control of Cuba for inimical purposes. Yet that foreign power, Soviet Russia, had not been declared to be an enemy. At most, the President had pronounced its officials to be liars, but a liar is not necessarily an enemy. This explains the use of the term quarantine for this particular blockade.

In May 1915 "... The Department of State instructed the Ambassador in Rome to inform the Italian Foreign Office that it appeared that the coats of a non-combatant had been declared a closed sea; that in the opinion of the United States there was no authority, in international law or usage for this action."

The United States has, in effect, in the present blockade, shut the Caribbean off from the rest of the world. But at this time, such weapons exist as the world has not known before and it is essential that this country defend itself from the use of these weapons against her.

Heretofore, it had been assumed that the Russians possessed weapons which they could employ from their own soil to damage the United States. However, it appears that the Russians need to depend upon weapons outside of Russia to bury us. They have therefore established a base 90 miles from our coast with the object of firing weapons at us to destroy our principal cities.

This being so, the United States would indeed be governed by morons not to take strong measures to defend this country from such losses. The only possible criticism of the President's action is that he waited over long, but no man wants to bring on a nuclear war if there are other ways. Neither the President nor anyone else could tell in advance what the effect of a blockade would be.

It is interesting to note that when during World War I, the Allied governments proposed to blockade Communist Russia, the State Department held:

"... A blockade before a state of war exists is out of the question. It could not be recognized by this government."

In 1962 it is recognized that a peculiar state of war does exist between Soviet Russia and the United States, the "Cold War." It is a war for position which does not include belligerency. As such a war is unknown in technical international relations, it has to be conducted without rules. There is a war, but no enemy in a technical sense.

Embassy In Cuba Spent Time On Gambling Debt Instead Of Castro

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — In the files of the American Embassy in Havana, now in the custody of the Swiss government, is some highly interesting information which might intrigue the voters of California and, in fact, all the American public. It bears on two important questions:

1. Was the American Embassy devoting sufficient time to the ticklish Cuban political situation in the years prior to Castro in order to head off Castroism?

2. What favors did Richard M. Nixon do for the man who collected the $18,000 personal expense fund for him?

The correspondence in U. S. Embassy files is rather lengthy and shows that Embassy personnel were kept busy part of their time in advising on a gambling debt incurred by Dana C. Smith, the Pasadena attorney who collected the $18,000 Nixon expense fund. Nixon says in his book "Six Great Decisions" that General Eisenhower almost threw him off the GOP ticket because of this fund.

This writer has been able to obtain copies of the U. S. Embassy correspondence and believes the American people are entitled to know what is in it.

Nixon Intervenes

On Sept. 19, 1952, the Embassy in Havana wrote the Department of State as follows:

"The Embassy received on Sept. 3, 1952, a letter from Mr. Dana

C. Smith, under cover of a transmitting letter from Sen. Richard Nixon. Senator Nixon informed the Embassy that Mr. Smith is a highly respected member of his community and that the Senator would appreciate anything the Embassy might be able to do to assist him in his problem. There is enclosed a copy of Mr. Smith's letter referred to above."

The Smith letter told how he had been dining at the Sans Souci Night Club, one of the hottest gambling casinos in the Old Batista days, and lost some money playing "cubolo." Mr. Smith did not inform the Embassy how much he lost, but this writer has obtained a copy of his check and can report that it was $4,200.

Smith did report to the Embassy that he had stopped payment on his check. He told the Embassy that he understood the game cubolo was illegal in Cuba and asked the Embassy to answer a long list of questions including: "Is the game legal? Would the courts of Cuba render a judgment for the night club? Is the game considered fair gambling? Do you have any information indicating that the game is not honestly conducted?"

Cubolo Is Legal

When a U. S. Senator takes the trouble to write a letter to an American Embassy, he gets service. And the Embassy went to a lot of trouble regarding Smith's gambling debt. It obtained an opinion from a competent attorney in Havana, which read as follows:

"I have noted with interest the letter addressed to the American Embassy on the problem outlined by Mr. Smith. "Is the game considered fair gambling? I cannot answer this as I do not know. I know of no game in which the player has a reasonable chance to win substantially."

The legal opinion continued at great length for the benefit of Senator Nixon's fund collector.

Ambassador Wants Speed

An inquiry from a Senator merits careful attention, and even after this legal opinion was sent to the State Department, the American Embassy on Sept. 29 sent another report to Washington which began:

"It is believed sufficient for the present that the Embassy acknowledge directly to Mr. Dana C. Smith at his address in Pasadena the receipt of his letter of Aug. 21, 1952, and convey to him in general terms its comment on the four points raised by Mr. Smith, along the following lines."

The letter was marked "cleared" with Mr. Wellman, Mr. Loveland and Ambassador Beaulac."

However, this didn't end the matter. There is also in the Embassy files a memo from Paul J. Reveley, the Consul General, to Mr. Wellman of the Embassy Staff, dated Sept. 29, stating: "Mr. Wellman ... said that it was the Ambassador's wish that a reply be sent as soon as possible and, if possible, that afternoon."

That was how important a gambling debt to the American Embassy when Richard Nixon was involved, and how the Embassy spent its time when it should have been trying to head off Castroism.

The interesting thing is what happened to the head of the Sans Souci Night Club who tried to collect his debt from Dana Smith. It's an important revelation which will be told in a future column.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

July was hot and long in 1956. At Parris Island, it went on forever because Sergeant Matthew McKeon was being court-martialed. He had marched his lax platoon into swamps, and six recruits drowned. It was night and the tide was high, the current was strong, and some could not swim.

Ordinarily, a court martial requires a day. Or two. In this case, everyone around the U. S. Marine base, except the non-commissioned officers, thought that McKeon should get 20 years at hard labor and a dishonorable discharge. Simple. It might have gone that way except for a man named Emile Zola Berman.

Berman was a bald head and jug ears framing a wretched smile. A New York judge named James McNally had interested Berman in the McKeon court martial. So Berman, on his own time and with his own money, arrived at Parris Island to talk to the prisoner, McKeon said: "I was in charge and I made a mistake. I should be punished."

Emile Zola Berman took the case. He walked into a military court with several strikes against him. He was a civilian. He was a slick lawyer from New York. He was a Jew. I watched him run uphill. He made it. By the afternoon of the first day, he had disarmed the array of judges by his manners, his gallantry, his knowledge of courts-martial procedure, and by his amiable disposition toward hostile witnesses.

I watched the cast iron court melt. Around the barracks, and over in Beaufort, the local gamblers stopped offering 5-to-1 that the sergeant would get 20 years. All the reporters began to send back to their home offices for old clippings on Berman. He had been an Air Force colonel in Burma in the war.

He was entitled to wear three medals, including the Distinguished Flying Cross. He had a wife and two children and lived in Roslyn Heights, Long Island. He was known, in New York, as a lawyer's lawyer. The thing which endeared him to the reporters was that he could make droll stories of his own early mistakes.

The sun never sets on Parris Island. It can be felt on a wet sheet at 3 a. m. The case went on, day after day, week after week. Berman made the judges forget McKeon. The Marine Corps, he said, was on trial. The system of training boots was the issue. One after another, he paraded sergeants to the stand and each one admitted that he had often disciplined a platoon by marching it, in full gear through the boondocks.

Before it was over, Berman had the Marine Corps Commandant on the stand, and also Lt. Gen. Chesty Puller, the hero of Peleliu. They not only testified, but backed the tough discipline of the drill instructors. When the verdict came in, Emile Zola Berman had not only won the admiration of the court, but he had infused new spirit in McKeon too.

Matt served 11 days. He was busted from rank. The Corps gave him a chance to get out, but he turned it down. "I'll stay," he said, "as a buck private." They transferred him to Cherry Point. Within a year, he was voted Marine of the Month. No amount of extra duty could make him blink those blue eyes, nor ruffle that skin haircut.

When he got out, he won an honorable discharge. On his way home to Massachusetts, he stopped in New York to thank Berman again. "What are you going to do?" the lawyer said. Matt shrugged. "Keep praying every day for the souls of those six kids," he said.

Berman had done a job which, in military jurisprudence, ranks with anything Clarence Darrow ever did and he did it — not for money — but because a judge had asked him to go south and interview a prisoner and see if he deserved counsel. Berman had returned home, picked up the hanging threads of cases he left in New York, and gone back to practice.

All that was six years ago. McKeon had not asked for Berman. Nor had Berman asked for McKeon. They made an ideal team. Since that time, I have lost sight of the principals in the case. Last week, I spoke to Emile Zola Berman. The voice sounded untouched by time.

We asked each other a lot of questions. Judge McNally, I learned, is now a judge on the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court. The Marine Corps Commandant has retired. A book has been written about Chesty Puller. Matt McKeon is a Massachusetts state milk inspector. Berman is running for district attorney in his home county.

"DA?" I said. Yes, he said. "I know a lot of writers who would vote for you," I said, "but they don't live in your county." "I'll return the compliment," he said. "When I'm elected, I won't try them for crimes they don't commit."

In achieving his world record of 174 hours balancing on a tight-rope, that agile Frenchman must also have set a new mark for doing the Twist.

Just released statistics show that in the year March 1960-March 1961, 35.5 million persons in the U. S. moved from one residence to another. Proof again that America is certainly on the go!

It's estimated U. S. filling stations give away more than 100 million road maps a year. And still there are some people who act as though they don't know where they are!

From Coach Buck O'Neill of Hamilton College comes a delectable football story of a climactic encounter years ago between Hamilton and its archrival, Colgate, in which the Colgate eleven was making damaging and consistent gains through the center of the Hamilton line. O'Neill finally sent a substitute, Miller, for the varsity center, Doyle—

"... thing immediately took a decided turn for the better. After the game, Coach O'Neill warmly praised Miller for his key role in Hamilton's last-minute victory. "Thank you for the kind words, Coach," replied Miller. "but I really don't deserve all the credit. You see, when I went in, Doyle never came out."

Keyser Church Observes Catholic Youth Week

KEYSER — Young people from the Church of the Assumption have joined other organizations throughout the country in observance of National Catholic Youth Week which commenced yesterday, the Feast of Christ the King, and will end next Sunday, November 4.

They were urged to receive Holy Communion in honor of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Queen of Youth. Reports indicate that last year there were over seven million young people who received the sacrament on this day as the Youth Week got underway.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. John O'Connell, spiritual advisor for the local Catholic Youth Organization, talked to the young people about their responsibilities as leaders of the world of tomorrow, stressing the permanent aims and purposes of the National Catholic Youth Week and of the specific intentions for 1962.

These include: to reaffirm loyalty to His Holiness and offer prayers for success of the Ecumenical Council for the purpose of creating a greater unity among the Christian churches; to display the talents, abilities and resources of youth; and to reveal modern Catholic youth's depth of spirituality; to foster frequent reception of the Sacraments among Catholic youth; and to work for the increase of religious vocations.

Ike Supports Kennedy On Cuban Crisis

Domestic Policy Is Another Matter

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the American people should back President Kennedy in the Cuban Crisis but he also said this doesn't mean they have to agree with his domestic policy.

Speaking here on behalf of West Virginia Republican candidates for Congress, the former chief executive labeled Kennedy's domestic policy as "the policy of the Far Frontiersman."

Eisenhower addressed a crowd of about 400 here Saturday as part of some airplane campaigning on behalf of GOP candidates. Eisenhower's plane touched down in five states Saturday.

Among Republican dignitaries greeting Eisenhower were former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Charleston Mayor John Shanklin and former U. S. Sen. Chapman Revercomb.

Eisenhower told the gathering that "you could do nothing better for yourselves and your country than to elect your Republican nominees to Congress."

Eisenhower said the lives of Americans now are being guided "by a little clique of professors." He asked West Virginians to elect the GOP candidates and "take the government back into your own hands."

"The job can be done if you put your head and hearts and your pocketbooks into it," he said.

The former president lashed out at federal spending and taxes. He said both spending and taxes must be reduced if the nation is to expect an upsurge in the economy.

Eisenhower said he had heard from a top Democrat recently that Americans "could never again expect a lessening of the cost of government."

Noting that Americans are paying about $10 million a year in interest on the federal debt, Eisenhower said the people should not stand "for this sort of thing."

He told the gathering that the laws are to be made by Congress, not the executive branch of government.

"The executive wants the right to alter tax rates and is trying to cut the power of the Federal Reserve Board," he said. "It's even trying to put the federal government into your cities through an Urban Affairs Department."

W. Va. Amendments May "Swim Or Sink" Together

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of five dispatches on the constitutional amendments to be voted on Nov. 6, outlining the proposed changes, the debates on their merits and their legislative background.

By J. RICHARD TOREN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginians may not be as single-minded as some people think when it comes to voting on proposed amendments to their state Constitution.

It's become almost a byword that, more than likely, the five amendments to be voted on Nov. 6 will swim—or sink—together. Persons backing this viewpoint can to the fact that more than one amendment has been up for ratification 18 times and the voters either approved or rejected all of them en masse 14 times.

But a more useful statistic—at least one more in keeping with modern-day trends—can be used to show something quite different.

During the past 30 years when more than one amendment has been on the same ballot, the voters four times approved or defeated them all, but on four other occasions split their decisions.

In the past dozen years alone, this is the record: 1950, two ratified, one rejected; 1956, two approved, 1960, three approved.

The five amendments on the general election ballot represents as many constitutional questions as state voters have ever been asked to consider at one time.

Five Okayed in '02

Only once before, in 1902, has there been as many as five. That year, incidentally, all five were ratified by two-to-one majorities, but they appear to have been relatively non-controversial. They included provision for voter registration laws, making the secretary of state an elective officer, increasing the Supreme Court to five members, creating an irrevocable school fund and letting the legislature fix salaries of all state officers.

On only three other occasions have as many as four amendments been submitted at one time, in 1930, 1934 and 1958.

These are the amendments to be voted on next week. They are listed under the name and in the order they will appear on the ballot—an order determined by the order in which they were approved by the legislature:

1. Alcoholic Liquor Control Amendment—to allow the legislature to legalize liquor by the drink on a local option basis and end the state store monopoly system, subject to many restrictions.

2. State Executive and Budget Amendment—to let the governor serve two successive terms and give him sole authority to draft the budget bill, and provide for the reorganization and streamlining of state government.

3. Sheriffs' Succession Amendment—to permit sheriffs to serve two successive terms. They may not now succeed themselves.

4. Fair Representation Amendment—to provide that each county shall have at least one member in the House of Delegates, and to strengthen the requirement for reapportionment after the census.

Three Are Controversial

5. Legislative Amendment—to remove the governor's power to add items to the agenda of the legislature at its 30-day budget sessions, and liberalize provisions for expense money paid to senators and delegates.

Three of these—Liquor, Executive and Apportionment—have become the subject of heated debate, to the point that the Sheriffs' Succession and Legislative Amendments have been almost forgotten.

The liquor question racked the legislature for 10 years before the "wets" finally mustered enough strength to submit it to the voters.

The executive-budget proposal is the only one sponsored by the Commission on Constitutional Revision created by the 1957 legislature. And the "fair apportionment" plan, aimed at keeping 13 counties from losing their House seats, has been tagged the "Unfair Representation Amendment" by its critics.

As is required by the Constitution, each proposed amendment had to be approved by two-thirds of the entire membership of the legislature to go before the voters for ratification.

And each issue will be decided by a simple majority of those voting on it.

Tomorrow: The Liquor Amendment.

Frostburg Will Begin Charge On Collections

Program Will Start This Week

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and Council announced yesterday that a new system of charges for garbage and trash collections will go into effect Thursday.

Officials said this is the first time a charge will have been made in Frostburg for either of the services. Council explained that the levy is necessary if the service is to continue. A new garbage truck has been ordered and should be delivered sometime during November.

Garbage collection permits may be purchased at the tax collector's office on Water Street. No mail orders will be accepted.

Residents will be charged $10 for a year's permit. Non-residents may purchase a permit for the same price but will have to haul their own trash and garbage. Commercial haulers within the city limits will pay $25 annually, and those outside the city limits will be handled by contract only after applications are received by council with necessary information.

The collection schedule will be as follows: Trash and garbage, Wood Street west, Monday and Thursday, and Wood Street east, every Tuesday and Friday. Trash and garbage must be at the curb no later than 8 a. m. on collection dates. Otherwise, it will not be collected.

Garbage must be in a suitable metal or plastic container with a lid, and the permit must be placed on the can facing the street. No paper bags will be permissible on curbs. Trash and refuse must be placed in cardboard or suitable containers.

The city dump will be open during the following hours: Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. No person will be permitted to use the dump without a permit or contract, and dumping will be under the direction of a custodian.

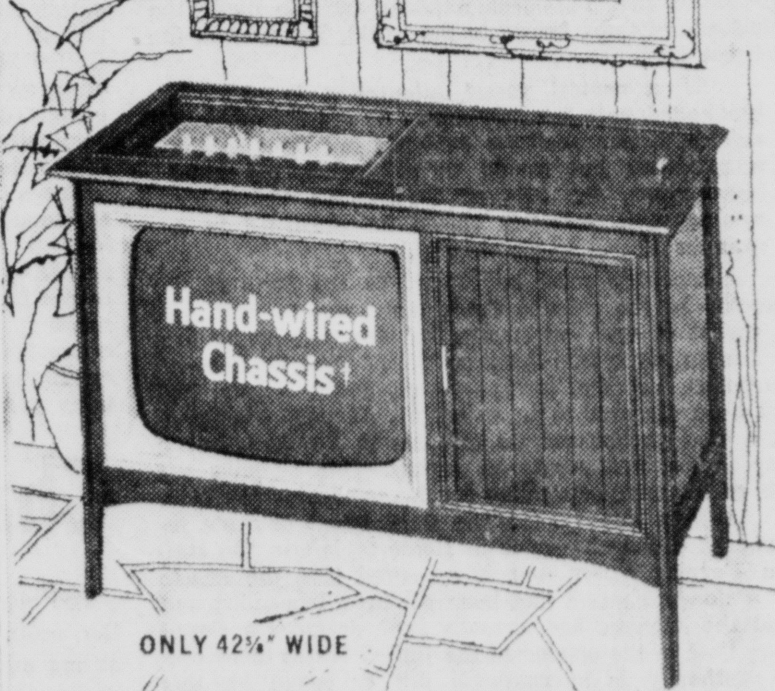

Permits may be obtained until November 30, after which no collection will be made unless the proper procedure is followed. Until further notice the old dump on Midlothian Road at the south city limits will be used. Another site is being sought.

The Crusade moves throughout a diocese at a rate of from two to four parishes a week; a school may rotate by class or division. When all parishes or schools have completed their week of participation the process is resumed until the official end of the Crusade, Pentecost Sunday, June 2, 1963.

Pope John XXIII, President Kennedy, the cardinals, archbishops, and bishops of many dioceses, governors and mayors throughout the country have recognized the week. All programs have been built around the theme: "Reverent Youth — Loyal Leaders."

Ike Supports Kennedy On Cuban Crisis

Domestic Policy Is Another Matter

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says the American people should back President Kennedy in the Cuban Crisis but he also said this doesn't mean they have to agree with his domestic policy.

Speaking here on behalf of West Virginia Republican candidates for Congress, the former chief executive labeled Kennedy's domestic policy as "the policy of the Far Frontiersman."

Eisenhower addressed a crowd of about 400 here Saturday as part of some airplane campaigning on behalf of GOP candidates. Eisenhower's plane touched down in five states Saturday.

Among Republican dignitaries greeting Eisenhower were former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Charleston Mayor John Shanklin and former U. S. Sen. Chapman Revercomb.

Eisenhower told the gathering that "you could do nothing better for yourselves and your country than to elect your Republican nominees to Congress."

Eisenhower said the lives of Americans now are being guided "by a little clique of professors."

He asked West Virginians to elect the GOP candidates and "take the government back into your own hands."

"The job can be done if you put your head and hearts and your pocketbooks into it," he said. The former president lashed out at federal spending and taxes. He said both spending and taxes must be reduced if the nation is to expect an upsurge in the economy.

Eisenhower said he had heard from a top Democrat recently that Americans "could never again expect a lessening of the cost of government."

Noting that Americans are paying about $10 million a year in interest on the federal debt, Eisenhower said the people should not stand "for this sort of thing."

He told the gathering that the laws are to be made by Congress, not the executive branch of government. "The executive wants the right to alter tax rates and is trying to cut the power of the Federal Reserve Board," he said. "It's even trying to put the federal government into your cities through an Urban Affairs Department."

W. Va. Amendments May "Swim Or Sink" Together

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of five dispatches on the constitutional amendments to be voted on Nov. 6, outlining the proposed changes, the debates on their merits and their legislative background.

By J. RICHARD TOREN

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginians may not be as single-minded as some people think when it comes to voting on proposed amendments to their state Constitution.

It's become almost a byword that, more than likely, the five amendments to be voted on Nov. 6 will swim—or sink—together. Persons backing this viewpoint can to the fact that more than one amendment has been up for ratification 18 times and the voters either approved or rejected all of them en masse 14 times.

But a more useful statistic—at least one more in keeping with modern-day trends—can be used to show something quite different.

During the past 30 years there have been more than one amendment has been on the same ballot, the voters four times approved or defeated them all, but on four other occasions split their decisions.

In the past dozen years alone, this is the record: 1950, two ratified, one rejected; 1956, two ratified, one rejected; 1958, four approved, 1960, three approved.

The five amendments on the general election ballot represents as many constitutional questions as state voters have ever been asked to consider at one time.

Five Okayed in '02

Only once before, in 1902, has there been as many as five. That year, incidentally, all five were ratified by two-to-one majorities, but they appear to have been relatively non-controversial. They included provision for voter registration laws, making the secretary of state an elective officer, increasing the Supreme Court to five members, creating an irreducible school fund and letting the legislature fix salaries of all state officers.

On only three other occasions have as many as four amendments been submitted at one time, in 1930, 1934 and 1958.

These are the amendments to be voted on next week. They are listed under the name and in the order they will appear on the ballot—an order determined by the order in which they were approved by the legislature:

1. Alcoholic Liquor Control Amendment—to allow the legislature to legalize liquor by the drink on a local option basis and the state store monopoly system, subject to many restrictions.

2. State Executive and Budget Amendment—to let the governor serve two successive terms and give him sole authority to draft the budget bill, and provide for the reorganization and streamlining of state government.

3. Sheriff's Succession Amendment—to permit sheriffs to serve two successive terms. They may not now succeed themselves.

4. Fair Representation Amendment—to provide that each county shall have at least one member in the House of Delegates, and to strengthen the requirement for reapportionment after the census.

Three Are Controversial

5. Legislative Amendment—to remove the governor's power to add items to the agenda of the legislature at its 30-day budget sessions, and liberalize provisions for expense money paid to senators and delegates.

Three of these—Liquor, Executive and Apportionment—have become the subject of heated debate, to the point that the Sheriff's Succession and Legislative amendments have been almost forgotten.

The liquor question racked the legislature for 10 years before the "wets" finally mustered enough strength to submit it to the voters. The executive-budget proposal is the only one sponsored by the Commission on Constitutional Revision created by the 1957 legislature. And the "fair apportionment" plan, aimed at keeping 15 counties from losing their House seats, has been tagged the "Unfair Representation Amendment" by its critics.

As is required by the Constitution, each proposed amendment had to be approved by two-thirds of the entire membership of the legislature to go before the voters for ratification.

And each issue will be decided by a simple majority of those voting on it.

Tomorrow: The Liquor Amendment.

OSTRICH FARM

BIRDS OF A FEATHER. . .The ostriches are herded much like cattle. They're being moved here to an alfalfa field for grazing.

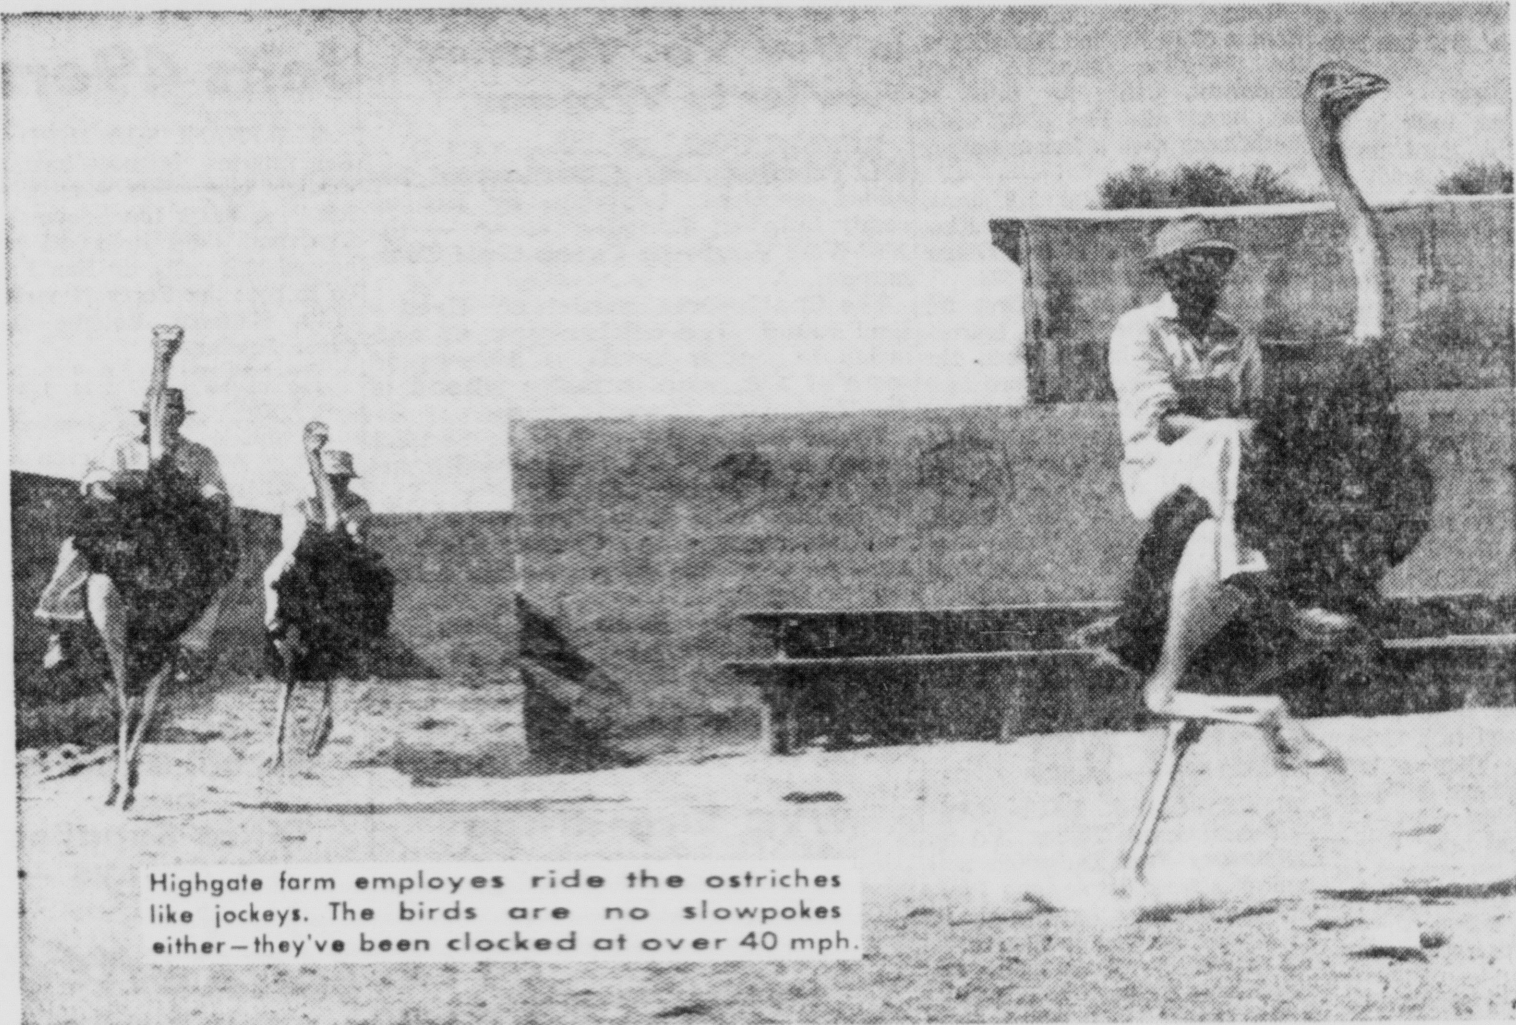

The ostrich is a funny bird. He's big, he's flightless he's fast—and he's trying hard to win back a reputation he once had in the fashion world. Only a few decades ago his feathers were the last word in adornments for the ladies. The chances for a comeback are good. Some fashions for the fall call for the use of the feathers.

This new trend, if it develops well, will mean much for the ostrich farmers of the world, especially the large holders like those in the Oudtshoorn district of South Africa's Cape Province, who have managed to keep their flocks intact, and even added to them, all during the long lean years.

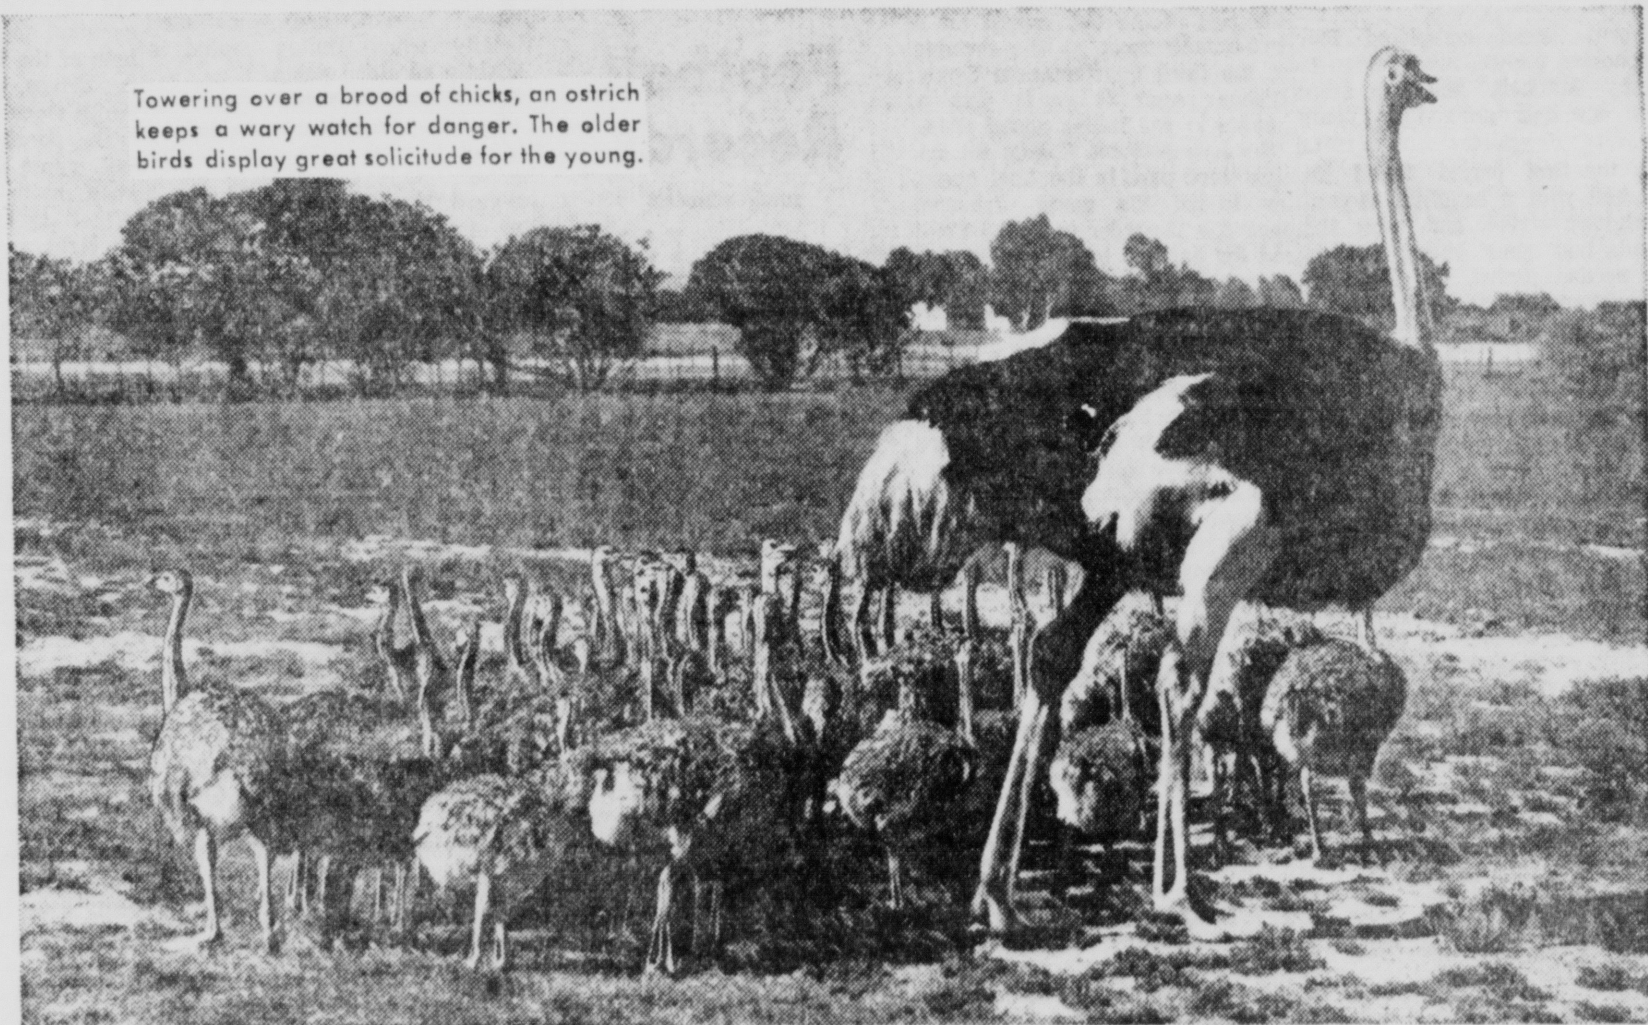

The Oudtshoorn holdings are vast. The 200 farmers in the area keep approximately 35,000 birds which produce about 75,000 pounds of feathers annually. About 40 per cent of the total production is exported to the United States and Great Britain.

The ostriches roam the flat farm lands in groups of 50 to 100. Most prominent and prized of the flocks are the males which stand up to eight feet tall and are adorned with fluffy black and white curly plumes. The females are smaller and their plumage is a dullish brown. The chicks are agile little fellows, hatched from eggs weighing three pounds—the largest egg of any living bird. They grow fast and their feathers will be plucked for the first time when they're only six months old.

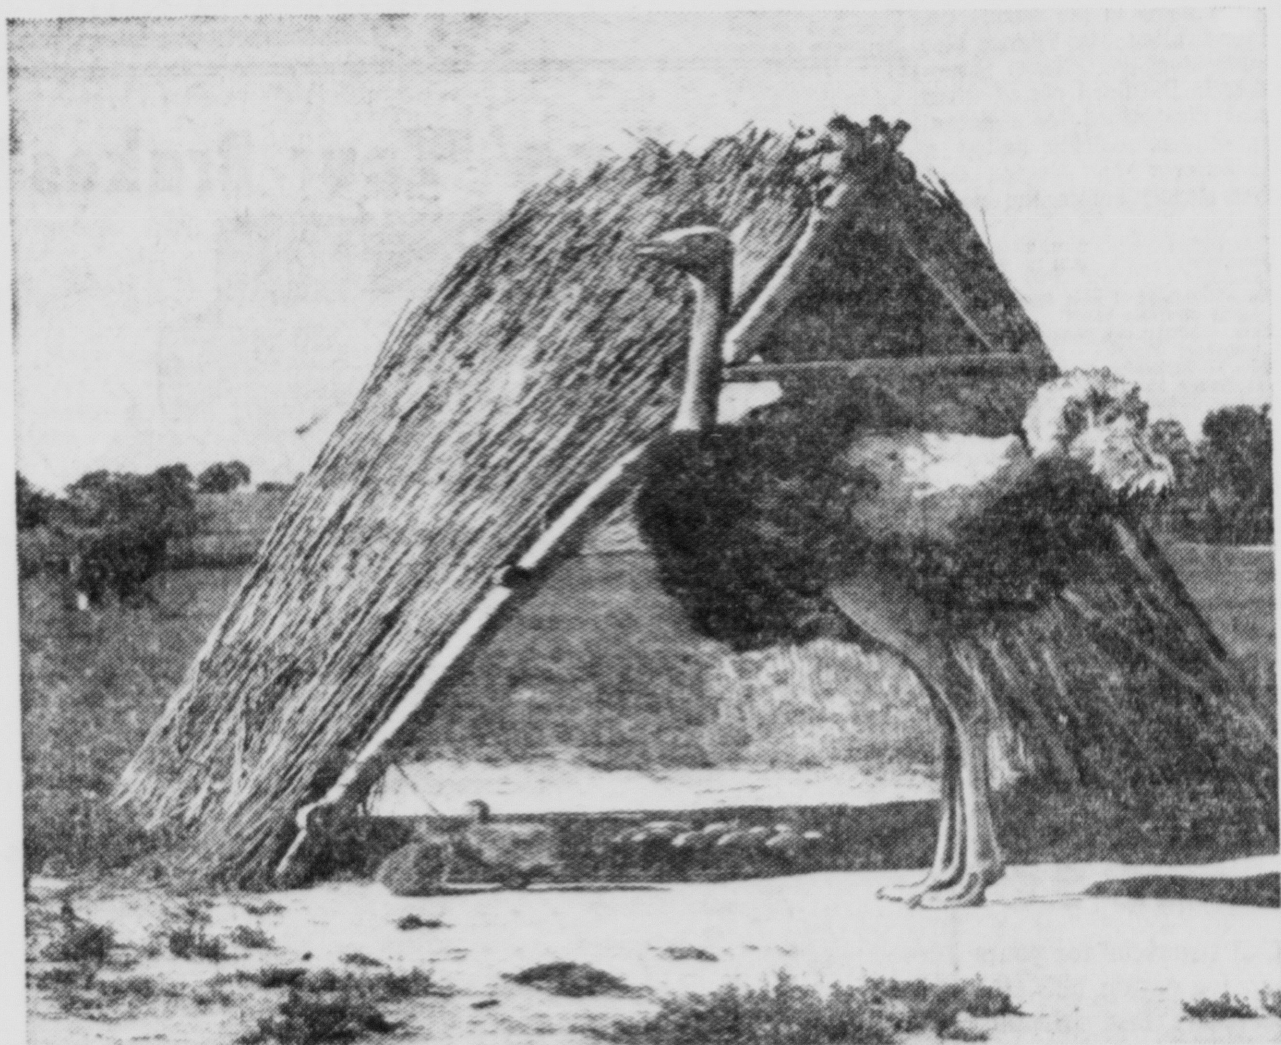

Pictured here is the 300-acre Highgate ostrich farm, one of the largest in the Oudtshoorn district.

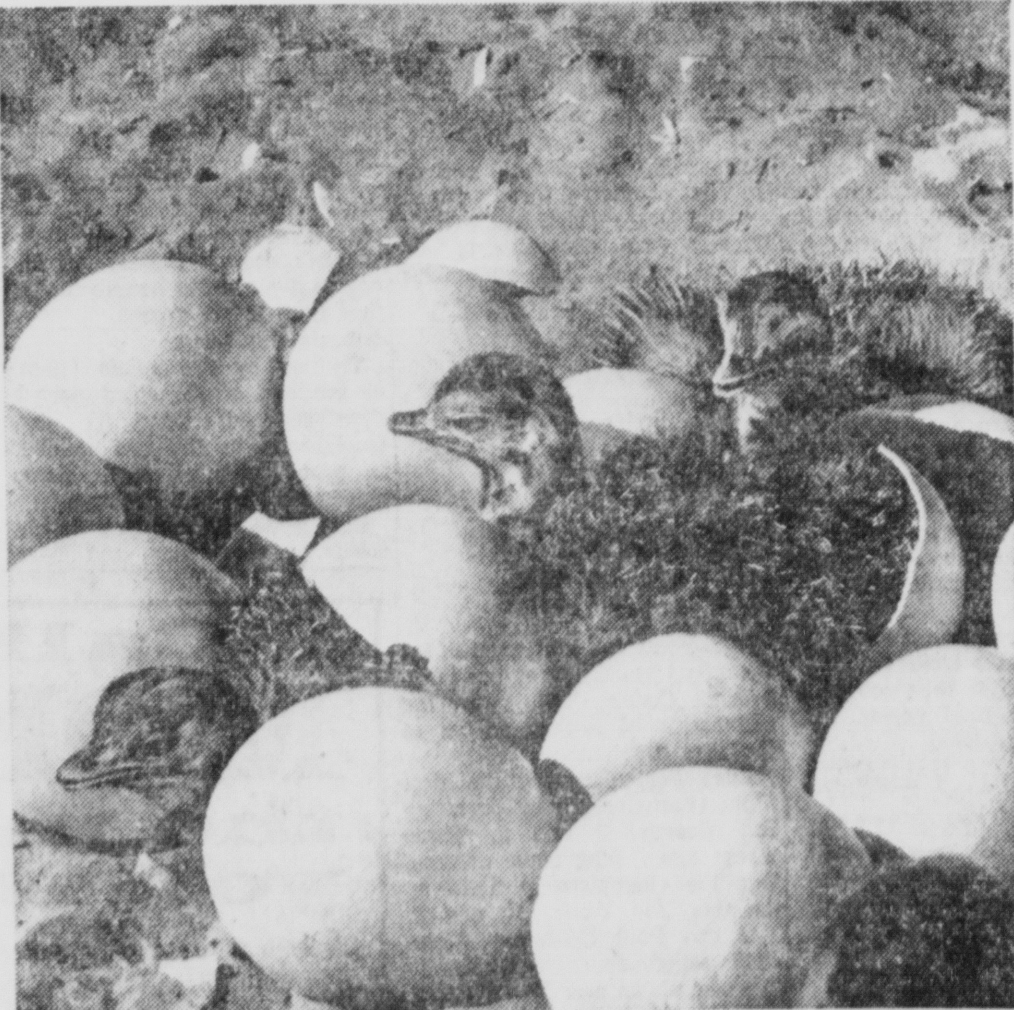

Highgate farm employees ride the ostriches like jockeys. The birds are no slowpokes either—they've been clocked at over 40 mph.

Towering over a brood of chicks, an ostrich keeps a wary watch for danger. The older birds display great solicitude for the young.

This wooden shelter protects the eggs and chicks from the blazing sun.

Three baby chicks, covered with bristly down, pop out of their shells. An egg is laid every second day and no hatching takes place until 10 to 15 eggs are laid.

Plume harvesting is done every nine months. The yield ranges from stiff grey feathers to foamy white plumes with middle grades of black and brown. Feathers are clipped, not pulled.

Giants Stop Redskins, 49-34; Green Bay Tops Baltimore, 17-6

Tittle Fires 7 TD Passes, Ties Record

Washington Suffers First Loss Before Aerial Barrage

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Y. A. Tittle, the incredible "old man" of the New York Giants, tied the National Football League record of seven touchdown passes Sunday in a devastating aerial barrage that sent the Washington Redskins crashing down to their first defeat of the season, 49-34.

The bald, 35-year-old Tittle completed 27 of 39 passes for a total of 505 yards and at one stage of the game hit on 12 successive throws as the Giants brought the Redskins down to the harsh realities of life in the NFL before 62,844 fans at Yankee Stadium.

Joe Walton caught three of Tittle's touchdown passes, Joe Morrison grabbed a pair and Del Shofner and Frank Gifford one each. These touchdown throws enabled Tittle to tie the NFL record as set by Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in 1943 and matched by Adrian Burk of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1954.

Shofner Is Target

Shofner, although he scored only once, was Tittle's primary target as he caught 11 passes for total of 268 yards. Tittle's touchdown throwing and his yardage total were new New York club records, while Shofner set a team mark for yardage gained on pass catches and tied the old Giants' record for receptions.

Despite the defeat, the Redskins clung to the Eastern Division lead with a record of four victories, two ties and Sunday's setback. The victory was the fifth against two defeats for New York.

The Giants broke open the game with a 21-point third quarter after the Redskins had scored the first touchdown of the game and narrowed the Giants' lead to a single point twice, once at 14-13 and later at 21-20.

Norm Snead completed four touchdown passes, two of them to Bobby Mitchell, and for more than one half gave the Giants fits.

In the first period Snead hit Mitchell with a beautiful 44-yard touchdown strike, and, after the Giants had gone ahead 14-7 in the second period, the Redskins' second-year quarterback threw a long 34-yard scoring pass to Fred Duhan.

Skins Trail 21-20

On the first play after the second-half kickoff, Snead again beat the Giants' defense with a long touchdown strike to Mitchell, which covered 80 yards and narrowed New York's lead to 21-20.

At this stage of the game, Tittle hit on nine successive passes, including touchdown passes of 32 yards to Shofner and 26 yards to Walton. Then, after missing the first pass in that string, he hit Gifford with a 63-yard scoring bomb that pulled the Giants away to a commanding 42-20 advantage.

St. Patrick's, season-long leaders in the Catholic Youth League championship race, were stunned yesterday afternoon at Mt. Calvary Field by SS. Peter and Paul, who whipped the Irishmen 26-6 and thereby moved into a tie for the league lead.

Previously winless St. Mary's had a field day yesterday, romping to a 45-20 victory over St. Michael's at Marydale, as Eddie Hollen scored five touchdowns.

Next Sunday's season-ending action finds St. Mary's at St. Patrick's, and SS. Peter and Paul at St. Michael's in Frostburg. Should St. Patrick's and SS. Peter and Paul both win, which is likely, a post-season playoff will be necessary to determine the championship.

Cards Defeat Dallas, 28-24

Johnson's Passes Net Three Scores

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — Charlie Johnson's three scoring passes, two of them to end Sonny Randle, gave the hapless St. Louis Cardinals a 28-24 National Football League victory over Dallas Sunday in a battle of blown chances by both teams.

Johnson hit Randle with an 86-yarder on the Cards' first play from scrimmage.

The Cowboys played catch-up the rest of the day except for a two-minute span at the opening of the third quarter when Sonny Bishop raced 84 yards with a fumble to put Dallas ahead 17-14.

Johnson also hit Randle for an eight-yard pass in the final quarter to tie the game. Johnson pegged a 10-yarder to Bobby Con. Giants had gone ahead 14-7 in the second quarter. The other Cardinals' second-year quarterback threw a long 57-yard scoring pass to Fred Duhan.

The Cowboys, whose record dropped to 3-3-1 with the loss, tried vainly to pull it out, surging 43 yards for one touchdown with three minutes to go. Dallas whipped from its own 28 yard line to the Cardinals' nine with 31 seconds to go. But, there the Cardinal defense smothered two passing attempts as the clock ran out.

The Cowboys scored on a 37-yard quarterback field goal by Sam Baker, a 33-yard romp by Don Perkins in the second quarter, Bishop's spectacular fumble runback in the third and a one-yard pass from Don Meredith to Lee Folkins in the fourth period. Penalties cost the Cowboys two bad scoring chances.

Eddie LeBaron, the league's leading passer, hit only eight of 15 passes for 105 yards, while Johnson made good on 10 of 20 for 239 yards.

Walker Kicks Three Field Goals To Give Lions 11-3 Victory

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions parlayed three field goals by Wayne Walker and a bone-crushing defense that trapped Billy Wade for a safety into an 11-3 victory over the Chicago Bears in a National League football game Sunday.

The triumph, which was more lopsided than the score indicated, shot the Lions into full possession of second place in the NFL's Western Division and kept a flicker of hope for their title chances. Walker kicked his first two field goals of 17 and 43 yards in the second period to give the Lions a 6-0 halftime lead, then added a 38-yarder with 1:54 left in the game.

A crowd of 53,342 saw the Lions' return home victorious after their 17-14 upset defeat last Sunday to the New York Giants. It was a disastrous blow to the Bears, who had reeled off two straight victories after their 49-0 loss to Green Bay.

Packers Post 15th Straight NFL Triumph

Starr And Taylor Sparkle Before Crowd Of 57,996

By MALCOLM ALLEN
United Press International

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers combined the pinpoint passing of quarterback Bart Starr and the hard-running of fullback Jim Taylor to beat the Baltimore Colts, 17-6, Sunday to remain undefeated in the National Football League.

It was the Packers' 15th victory in a row and their seventh this season. The loss left fading Baltimore, which failed to score a touchdown Sunday, with a mediocre 3-4 record.

Both clubs battled on equal terms throughout most of the first half. The Packers scored first on a 23-yard field goal by Jerry Kramer. Baltimore responded with a 34-yard field goal by Dick Bielski.

Penalties Hurt Colts

Moments before the first half ended with the score deadlocked, 3-3, tempers began to flare. Green Bay was penalized to its own 12-yard line for a personal foul following the Colt kickoff. Then the Packers picked up a quick and easy 30 yards on two consecutive plays when the Colts were penalized for personal fouls.

With time rapidly running out in the first half, Starr continued to move his team downfield with help from end Ron Kramer, finally throwing a 25-yard scoring pass to Kramer, seconds before the half ended.

Baltimore held Green Bay scoreless in the third period while picking up three more points on another 34-yard Bielski field goal. This saw the Packers end the final period with a narrow 10-6, with the Colts outstruggling the visitors while Starr battled with Johnny Unitas closely in the air.

Linebacker Ray Nitschke interception of a desperation Lamar McHan fourth down pass set up Green Bay's fourth period touchdown. McHan had substituted briefly when Unitas rested a slightly sprained ankle.

Taylor Runs 36 yards

Taylor, who had trouble getting out of his backfield most of the game, finally broke loose on a 36-yard TD run through the center of the Colt line at 8:55.

Starr was seldom at a loss to find receivers open, while his line gave him strong protection. Unitas, on the other hand, was rushed heavily and frequently found all his receivers covered.

Baltimore 0 3 0 6—6
Green Bay 0 10 0 7—17
Scoring:
Bal.—FG J. Kramer 23
Bal.—FG Bielski 34
Bal.—R. Kramer 25 pass from Starr (J. Kramer kick)
Bal.—FG Bielski 34
Bal.—Taylor 36 run (J. Kramer kick)
Attendance: 57,996.

A 41-yard Pety-to-Guyton pass set up the Rebel's final score in the fourth quarter. Walt Poffenberger plunged over from a yard out for the tally.

Titans Win Over San Diego, 23-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Titans, led by Johnny Green and Dick Christy, broke up a bruising defensive struggle with three touchdown strikes in the third period Sunday and whipped the San Diego Chargers for the first time in history, 23-3, in an American Football League game.

Green hit 17 of 30 passes for 299 yards and two touchdowns, both to Don Maynard. Christy dashed 73 yards to score on a punt return as the Titans broke a four-game losing streak and scored their first victory in six games against the Chargers.

It was New York's third victory against five defeats and the fifth defeat against three victories for San Diego which had won the Western Conference title in both of the first two AFL campaigns.

New York 0 3 20 0—23
San Diego 0 3 0 0—3
Scoring:
NY — FG 18 Shockey
SD — FG 43 Blair

The men's fall golf tournament wound up yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club, with the completion of a final match in the first flight.

Russ Ponton copped the first flight championship by defeating Bill George 3 and 2. Three weeks ago, young Steve Johnson won the championship flight by downing Joe Wolfe, 10 and 9.

In the Paul DeMarkey Memorial Seniors Tournament, Marion T. Powers won over Max Bastian, 5 and 4, but lost to George Newman, 2 and 1.

Newman will play the winner of the L. W. Brown-John H. Mosner match for the tourney title. Last year, Newman defeated Brown for the DeMarkey championship.

South Hagerstown Cracks Fort Hill Win Streak, 18-7

Frostburg Wins, Catamounts Lose; Beall Triumphs

The passing combination of Phil Petry and Dwight Guyton proved to be too much for Fort Hill to cope with Saturday night, and the Sentinels went down to an 18-7 defeat — their first of the season — at the hands of South Hagerstown before a "standing room only" crowd at the Stadium.

In other high school action on Saturday, Beall's Mountaineers coasted to a 32-0 victory over Northern at The Cove, and previously winless Bruce battled the Keyser "B" team to a scoreless tie at Westport.

Both area college teams were in action on Saturday afternoon, with Frostburg State trouncing Gallaudet College of Washington, 42-18, and Potomac State losing to Wesley Junior College of Dover (Del.), 28-0.

7:50 Witness Game

Saturday night's CVAL clash at the Stadium was one both teams and all of their followers had been pointing to for weeks, and a throng estimated at 7,500 flocked to the Greenway Avenue arena for the battle of unbeaten.

Petry, the Rebels' sensational senior quarterback, had one of the best games of his illustrious high school career in leading South to its eighth consecutive win of the year. The Sentinels dropped their first decision in eight starts.

The Hub City eleven is now the heavy favorite to cop the CVAL championship. The Rebels' only remaining game is against city rival North Hagerstown (0-8) next Friday night.

Fans were still making their way into the overflying stadium when Petry passed 11 yards to Lee Woodring for the Rebels' first touchdown in the opening period.

In the second quarter Petry himself took the ball over from nine yards out to give the visitors a 12-0 lead at intermission. Guyton, who came up with amazing catches of Petry's tosses all evening, made key receptions on both of the Rebels' first two scoring drives.

Smith Goes 43 Yards

The Sentinels got back in the ball game in the third period when halfback Colin Smith hit off left tackle, cut back to his right and raced 43 yards for the first and what turned out to be the only Fort Hill touchdown. Pat Wilson's extra point from placement cut the margin to 12-7.

A 41-yard Pety-to-Guyton pass set up the Rebel's final score in the fourth quarter. Walt Poffenberger plunged over from a yard out for the tally.

At game's end, Pety was hoisted onto the shoulders of a gang of jubilant South High fans, and carried triumphantly off the field.

Long runs featured Beall's victory over Northern as the Mountaineers registered their second straight shutout and fifth victory in seven starts. They've been beaten once and have a 7-7 tie with Romney on their log.

Jim Brady and Joe James each scored two touchdowns for Beall, with Dale Komatz getting the other. Brady tallied on runs of 45 and 26 yards, and James' scores came on a 64-yard scamper and a two-yard plunge. Komatz intercepted a Northern pass and ran it back 55 yards for a TD.

Bruce's Bulldogs, being represented on the gridiron for the first time this year, came ever closer to the coveted win column yesterday.

Although the Bulldogs got no farther than the Keyser team's 30-yard line, they twice stopped enemy threats on the two to avoid being beaten for the first time in six games.

Bobcats Cut Loose

Trailing by two points (18-16) at the end of the third period, Frostburg cut loose for four touchdowns in the last quarter to beat Gallaudet in a game played at Fort Hill Stadium.

Bill Hyde scored two touchdowns on short runs, and Dave

Davis tallied one on a two-yard thrust and passed for another pair, hitting George Connolly for 31 yards and Bill Goltzbach for 12.

Bob Shaw accounted for the other Bobcat score on a 17-yard run in the second quarter. The FSTC gridders, who evened their record at 3-3, also picked up a safety in the opening period.

Unbeaten Wesley College scored in every period to down Potomac State and win its sixth consecutive game. The Tri-State Athletic Conference battle was staged in the Delaware community. Potomac State's record is 1-5.

Wheaton High School, coached by Bill Hahn, tightened its hold on first place in the Montgomery County League Saturday by scoring a 14-6 victory over Northwood.

Lema Edges Bob Rosburg In Playoff

COSTA MESA, Calif. (UPI) — Slim Tony Lema birdied the third hole of a sudden-death playoff with Bob Rosburg Sunday to capture the $22,500 Orange County Open after the pair had tied at 267 for the 72-hole tournament.

Lema, who hails from San Leandro, Calif., had to overcome bad shots on the first and second holes to halve them with the Portland, Ore., veteran. But on the third hole he sank an 11-foot putt and Rosburg, putting from six inches less, rimmed the cup and that miss cost him $900.

"I thought I had blown the match on the first hole when I hooked into the rough," Lema said. "But then I recovered and that gave me enough confidence to carry me through."

Lema went into Sunday's final round with a 54-hole total of 198, two strokes better than Rosburg. But Rosburg shot a four-under-par 67 while Lema who bogied the fifth and sixth holes had a 69 to leave them tied at 267, 17 strokes under par for the Mesa Verde Country Club course.

George Bayer, Miami, Fla., fired a 67 to tie the Bob McCallister, the defending champion from Claremont, Calif., for third at 269. Bayer also had a 67 while McCallister shot a five-under-par 66.

In fourth place at 272 came Dan Sikes, Jacksonville, Fla., while Gene Littler of San Diego, who was two strokes back at 274.

The victory was the first for Lema in an official PGA tournament although he has been the hottest golfer on the fall pro tour and won the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas, Nev., which did not rank as an official tournament.

For sinking the birdie putt on the third hole of the playoff, Lema earned $2,800 while Rosburg had to settle for $1,900 because of the one missed stroke.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings, led by sophomores Fran Tarkenton and Tommy Mason, downed the Philadelphia Eagles, 31-21, Sunday in a National Football League contest marred by several outbreaks.

Brown Scores Twice, Rolls Up 93 Yards

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Fullback Jimmy Brown flashed the form that stamped him as one of the National Football League's leading ground gainers and his Cleveland teammates cashed in on giveaways to pace the Browns 41-14 rout of the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

Brown scored two touchdowns and rolled up 93 yards to sustain Cleveland's hope to remain as an Eastern Division contender.

The ball-hawking Browns turned in a Pittsburgh fumble and a pass interception for scores. Linebacker Vince Costello picked up Red Mack's fumble and rambled 21 yards for a touchdown.

Ex-Steelers Charley Scales ran 12 yards for another touchdown which was set up when Jim Shofner picked off a Bobby Layne pass for a 35-yard return.

Browns Drive 81-yards

Brown hauled in a 15-yard pass from quarterback Frank Ryan to end an 81-yard drive which the pounding fullback set up with his running. Brown bulled over from the one. The plunge was helped when a pass interference was called and the ball was set down on the one.

Ryan, sent in when Jim Ninowski suffered a shoulder injury in the second period, hurled a touchdown pass later in the fourth period with Ernie Green a receiver from six yards out.

Giants Stop Redskins, 49-34; Green Bay Tops Baltimore, 17-6

Tittle Fires 7 TD Passes, Ties Record

Washington Suffers First Loss Before Aerial Barrage

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Y. A. Tittle, the incredible "old man" of the New York Giants, tied the National Football League record of seven touchdown passes Sunday in a devastating aerial barrage that sent the Redskins crashing down to their first defeat of the season, 49-34.

The bald, 35-year-old Tittle completed 27 of 39 passes for a total of 505 yards and at one stage of the game hit on 12 successive throws as the Giants brought the Redskins down to the harsh realities of life in the NFL before 62,844 fans at Yankee Stadium.

Joe Walton caught three of Tittle's touchdown passes. Joe Morrison grabbed a pair and Del Shofner and Frank Gifford one each. These touchdown throws enabled Tittle to tie the NFL record as set by Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in 1943 and matched by Adrian Burk of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1954.

Shofner, although he scored only once, was Tittle's primary target as he caught 11 passes for total of 268 yards. Tittle's touchdown throwing and his yardage total both were New York club records, while Shofner set a team mark for yardage gained on pass catches and tied the old Giants' record for receptions.

Despite the defeat, the Redskins clung to the Eastern Division lead with a record of four victories, two ties and Sunday's setback. The victory was the fifth against two defeats for New York.

The Giants broke open the game with a 21-point third quarter after the Redskins had scored the first touchdown of the game and narrowed the Giants' lead to a single point twice, once at 14-13 and later at 21-20.

Norm Snead completed four touchdown passes, two of them to Bobby Mitchell, and for more than one half gave the Giants fits.

In the first period Snead hit Mitchell with a beautiful 44-yard touchdown strike, and after the Giants had gone ahead 14-7 in the second period, the Redskins second-year quarterback threw a 24-yard scoring pass to Fred Dugan.

Skins Trail 21-20
On the first play after the second-half kickoff, Snead again beat the Giants' defense with a long touchdown strike to Mitchell, which covered 80 yards and narrowed New York's lead to 21-20.

At this stage of the game, Tittle hit on nine successive passes, including touchdown passes of 32 yards to Shofner and 26 yards to Walton. Then, after missing the first pass in that string, he hit Gifford with a 63-yard scoring bomb that pulled the Giants away to a commanding 42-20 advantage.

St. Patrick's, season-long leaders in the Catholic Youth League championship race, were stunned yesterday afternoon at Mt. Calvary Field by SS. Peter and Paul, who whipped the Irishmen 26-6 and thereby moved into a tie for the league lead.

Previously winless St. Mary's had a field day yesterday, romping to a 45-20 victory over St. Michael's at Marydale, as Eddie Hollen scored five touchdowns.

Next Sunday's season-ending action finds St. Mary's at St. Patrick's, and SS. Peter and Paul at St. Michael's in Frostburg. Should St. Patrick's and SS. Peter and Paul both win, which is likely, a post-season playoff will be necessary to determine the championship.

Cards Defeat Dallas, 28-24

Johnson's Passes Net Three Scores

DALLAS (UPI) — Charlie Johnson's three scoring passes, two of them to end Sonny Randle, gave the hapless St. Louis Cardinals a 28-24 National Football League victory over Dallas Sunday in a battle of blown chances by both teams.

Johnson hit Randle with an 86-yarder on the Cards' first play from scrimmage.

The Cowboys played catch-up the rest of the day except for a two-minute span at the opening of the third quarter when Sonny Bishop paced 84 yards with a fumble to put Dallas ahead 17-14.

Johnson also hit Randle for an eight-yard pass in the final quarter to ice the game. Johnson pegged a 10-yarder to Bobby Conner for another touchdown in the second quarter. The other Cardinals counter came on a 57-yard interception run back by Larry Wilson.

The Cowboys, whose record dropped to 5-3-1 with the loss, tried vainly to pull it out, surging 43 yards for one touchdown with three minutes to go. Dallas whipped from its own 28 yard line to the Cardinals' nine with 31 seconds to go. But, there the Cardinals defense smothered two passing attempts as the clock ran out.

The Cowboys scored on a 37-yard first quarter field goal by Sam Baker, a 33-yard romp by Don Perkins in the second quarter. Bishop's spectacular fumble run back in the third and a one-yard pass from Don Meredith to Lee Folkins in the fourth period. Penalties cost the Cowboys two big scoring chances.

Eddie LeBaron, the league's leading passer, hit only eight of 15 passes for 105 yards, while Johnson made good on 10 of 20 for 239 yards.

Walker Kicks Three Field Goals To Give Lions 11-3 Victory

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions parlayed three field goals by Wayne Walker and a bone-crushing defense that trapped Billy Wade for a safety into an 11-3 victory over the Chicago Bears in a National League football game Sunday.

The triumph, which was more lopsided than the score indicated, shot the Lions into full possession of second place in the NFL's Western Division and kept a flicker of hope for their title chances. Walker kicked his first two field goals of 17 and 43 yards in the second period to give the Lions a 6-0 halftime lead, then added a 38-yarder with 1:34 left in the game.

A crowd of 53,342 saw the Lions' return home victorious after their 17-14 upset defeat last Sunday to the New York Giants. It was a disastrous blow to the Bears, who had reeled off two straight victories after their 49-0 loss to Green Bay.

Packers Post 15th Straight NFL Triumph

Starr And Taylor Sparkle Before Crowd Of 57,996

By MALCOLM ALLEN
United Press International

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers combined the pinpoint passing of quarterback Bart Starr and the hard-running of fullback Jim Taylor to beat the Baltimore Colts, 17-6, Sunday, to remain undefeated in the National Football League.

It was the Packers' 15th victory in a row and their seventh this season. The loss left fading Baltimore, which failed to score a touchdown Sunday, with a mediocre 3-4 record.

Both clubs battled on equal terms throughout most of the first half. The Packers scored first on a 23-yard field goal by Jerry Kramer. Baltimore responded with a 34-yard field goal by Dick Bishel.

Penalties Hurt Colts
Mentals before the first half ended with the score deadlocked 3-3, tempers began to flare. Green Bay was penalized to its own 12-yard line for a personal foul following the Colt kickoff. Then the Packers picked up a quick and easy 30 yards on two consecutive plays when the Colts were penalized for personal fouls.

With time rapidly running out in the first half, Starr continued to move his team downfield with big help from end Ron Kramer, finally throwing a 25-yard scoring pass to Kramer, seconds before the half ended.

Baltimore held Green Bay scoreless in the third period while picking up three more points on another 34-yard Bishel field goal. This saw the Packers enter the final period with a narrow, 10-6, with the Colts outstrutting the visitors while Starr battled with Johnny Unitas closely in the air.

Linebacker Ray Nitschke interception of a desperation Lamar McHan fourth down pass set up Green Bay's fourth period touchdown. McHan had substituted briefly when Unitas rested a slightly sprained ankle.

Taylor Runs 36 yards
Taylor, who had trouble getting out of his backfield most of the game, finally broke loose on a 36-yard TD run through the center of the Colt line at 8:55.

Starr was seldom at a loss to find receivers open, while his line gave him strong protection. Unitas, on the other hand, was rushed heavily and frequently found all his receivers covered.

Lema went into Sunday's final round with a 54-hole total of 198, two strokes better than Rosburg. But Rosburg shot a four-under-par 67 while Lema who bogied the fifth and sixth holes had a 69 to leave them tied at 267, 17 strokes under par for the Mesa Verde Country Club course.

George Bayer, Miami, Fla., fired a 67 to tie Bob McCallister, the defending champion from Claremont, Calif., for third at 269. Bayer also had a 67 while McCallister shot a five-under-par 66.

In fourth place at 272 came Dan Sikes, Jacksonville, Fla., while Gene Littler of San Diego, who was two strokes back at 274.

The victory was the first for Lema in an official PGA tournament although he has been the hottest golfer on the fall pro tour and won the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas, Nev., which did not rank as an official tourney.

For sinking the birdie putt on the third hole of the playoff, Lema earned $2,800 while Rosburg had to settle for $1,900 because of the one missed stroke.

Browns Wallop Steelers, 41-14

Brown Scores Twice, Rolls Up 93 Yards

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Fullback Jimmy Brown flashed the form that stamped him as one of the National Football League's leading ground gainers and his Cleveland teammates cashed in on giveaways to pace the Browns 41-14 rout of the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

Brown scored two touchdowns and rolled up 93 yards to sustain Cleveland's hope to remain as an Eastern Division contender.

The ball-hawking Browns turned in a Pittsburgh fumble and a pass interception for scores. Linebacker Vince Costello picked up Red Mack's fumble and rambled 21 yards for a touchdown.

Ex-Steelers Charley Scales ran 12 yards for another touchdown which was set up when Jim Shofner picked off a Bobby Layne pass for a 35-yard return.

Browns Drive 81-yards

Brown hauled in a 15-yard pass from quarterback Frank Ryan to end an 81-yard drive which the pounding fullback set up with his running. Brown bulled over with the one. The plunge was helped when a pass interference was called and the ball was set down on the one.

Ryan, sent in when Jim Ninowski suffered a shoulder injury in the second period, hurled a touchdown pass later in the fourth period with Ernie Green a receiver from six yards out.

Groza Boots Two Goals
And just to vary their scoring, Lou (the Toe) Groza booted field goals of 37 and 51 yards along with five conversions.

Wayne Johnson, Mt. Savage's pitching ace, was the recipient of a trophy for being the league's strikeout king with 137 victims while Fay Otting who led the league with 14 stolen bases received a trophy for that achievement.

Members of the team received attractive gray jackets from the Queen City Brewing Company.

The Mt. Savage team presented plaques to George McGinn, team treasurer, Manager Johnson, Coach Ralph Dic

Alabama, Wildcats, USC Emerge As Big Three Of College Powers

Top-Rated Texas Tied By Owls; Wisconsin Falls

Washington Also Deadlocked; Eight Unbeaten Remain

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bear Bryant's bruisers from Alabama and two teams pointing to the Rose Bowl—Northwestern and Southern California—emerged Sunday as the "big three" in the constantly changing battle for national college football honors.

Texas, holder of the No. 1 ranking for the last two weeks, and two other members of the top ten in The Associated Press poll, Wisconsin and Washington, were caught in the week-end meal grinder which left only eight of the country's major teams with perfect records.

The Texas Longhorns, with a string of victories stretching back to 1960, were tied 14-14 at Houston by a Rice team which capitalized on a late pass from Randall Kewbow to Ron Graham. Previously unbeaten Wisconsin, No. 5, bowed to bounce-back, twice-kicked Ohio State 14-7 while Washington, No. 8, was tied by Oregon 21-21.

These developments left the following teams clinging to unbeaten-untied marks: Alabama (6-0), Northwestern (5-0), Southern California (5-0), Mississippi (5-0), Auburn (5-0), Nebraska (6-0), Dartmouth (5-0), Ohio University (6-0).

Washington Twice-Tied

Washington, now tied twice, dropped into the category of teams which have not lost a game this season but which on one or more occasions have been held to a standstill.

These include: Washington (4-2), Louisiana State (4-0-1), Missouri (5-0-1) and Bowling Green (6-0-1).

Alabama's defending national champions made a bid for a return to the No. 1 position by the smashing Tulsa 35-6. It was the Crimson Tide's 17th straight victory and its 24th consecutive game without a loss.

Third-ranked Northwestern crushed Notre Dame 36-6, mainly on the deadly passing of Tom Meyers, and fourth-rated Southern Cal battered the Big Ten's Illinois 28-16.

Louisiana State and Mississippi, Nos. 6 and 7, respectively, warmed up for their crucial grudge match Saturday night at Baton Rouge with one-sided victories. LSU trampled Florida 23-0 and Ole Miss battered winless Vanderbilt 35-0.

Razorbacks Roll

Ninth-ranked Arkansas, whose only setback was a last minute defeat at the hands of Texas, rolled past Hardin-Simmons 49-7. Michigan State, No. 10 in the ratings and with only one defeat in five games, cut down Indiana 26-8.

Auburn, which a week ago stunned Georgia Tech, won its fifth straight the hard way, a last period field goal by Woody Woodall, beating Clemson 17-14. Nebraska smashed Colorado 31-6. Missouri, with only a single tie to mar its record, toppled Iowa State 21-6. Dartmouth, which went into the game with an uncrossed goal-line, became the only unbeaten-untied major team in the East by knocking over Harvard 24-6.

Auburn is looking to its Dec. 1 date with Alabama. Missouri has a date Saturday with Nebraska at Lincoln. Dartmouth goes against Yale. Ivy League co-champion, which had to rally for a 14-14 tie with Colgate. The size of Southern Cal's muscle will be tested in its game against Washington at Los Angeles.

Army and Navy, whose colorful service rivalry comes up for renewal Dec. 1 in Philadelphia, added zest to the approaching game with winning performances. Army, sticking largely to the ground, edged George Washington 14-0. Navy upset Pittsburgh 32-9 in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk, Va.

In other intersection games, Oregon State handed West Virginia its first setback of the year 51-22. Richmond squeezed past Cincinnati 21-20, and Boston College shut out Houston 14-0.

Dartmouth is now the only unbeaten team in the Ivy League but has four tough games remaining, including closing shots against Cornell and Princeton. The latter two played a thriller Saturday with Cornell winning 35-34 on the phenomenal play of quarterback Garry Wood.

Northwestern's toughest obstacle en route to the Big Ten title appears to be Michigan State, to be played Nov. 17. Duke and Maryland, unbeaten in the Atlantic Coast Conference but with a loss each outside, meet Nov. 10 in a game almost certain to decide the title and a possible bowl berth. Duke beat North Carolina State 21-14. Maryland edged South Carolina 13-11.

STARRING ROLE—Best pass completion percentage in the National Football League is held by Bart Starr (above), the Green Bay quarterback. Starr ranks second to Eddie LeBaron of the Dallas team in yards gained on passes.

Texans Assume AFL Lead By Beating Oilers

Dallas Gridders Score 31-7 Win

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Dallas Texans took over the American Football League Western Division lead Sunday by turning four pass interceptions and a Houston fumble into points to defeat the Oilers, 31-7.

The loss dropped the Oilers into second place behind Boston in the Eastern Division. The Dallas win, coupled with Buffalo's 45-38 upset of Denver, moved the Texans atop the West.

End Chris Burford caught passes from quarterback Len Dawson for touchdowns plays of 49 and 3 yards. Abner Haynes scored from the one after a 30-yard drive early in the first quarter.

Fred Arbanas scored on a pass from Dawson on a five-yard play in the third period. Tommy Brock kicked extra points after each Dallas touchdown and added a 27-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Charley Tolar scored the only Oilers touchdown on a one-yard plunge, capping off a 53-yard third-quarter drive. The touchdown was set up by a pass from quarterback George Blanda to Billy Cannon.

Dawson had one of his best days, completing 12 of 16 passes with one interception. Blanda had one of his worst with 8 completions in 18 attempts and three interceptions. His understudy, Jack Lee, also had a tough time, losing three passes by interception.

The Oilers, who ran 391 offensive plays before Sunday's game without losing a fumble, lost the ball three times against Dallas. The Texans intercepted six Oilers passes and converted three of them into touchdowns and one into a field goal.

It was the third loss for the Oilers on their home grounds in 18 games. It was Dallas' first win here.

Scoring: Oilers 1 run (Brooker kick) 7; Texans 49 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick) 35; Oilers 1 run (Brooker kick) 7; Texans 3 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick) 9; Oilers 1 run (Blanda kick) 1; Texans 5 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick) 35; Oilers FG 27 Brooker 31-750.

Alabama, Wildcats, USC Emerge As Big Three Of College Powers

Top-Rated Texas Tied By Owls; Wisconsin Falls

Washington Also Deadlocked; Eight Unbeaten Remain

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bear Bryant's bruisers from Alabama and two teams pointing to the Rose Bowl—Northwestern and Southern California—emerged Sunday as the "big three" in the constantly changing battle for national college football honors.

Texas, holder of the No. 1 ranking for the last two weeks, and two other members of the top ten in The Associated Press poll, Wisconsin and Washington, were caught in the week-end meat grinder which left only eight of the country's major teams with perfect records.

The Texas Longhorns, with a string of victories stretching back to 1960, were tied 14-14 at Houston by a Rice team which capitalized on a late pass from Randall Kerbow to Ron Graham. Previously unbeaten Wisconsin, No. 5, bowed to bounce-back, twice-tied Ohio State 14-7 while Washington, No. 8, was tied by Oregon 21-21.

These developments left the following teams clinging to unbeaten records: Alabama (6-0), Northwestern (5-0), Southern California (5-0), Mississippi (5-0), Auburn (5-0), Nebraska (6-0), Dartmouth (5-0), Ohio University (6-0).

Washington Twice-Tied

Washington, now tied twice, dropped into the category of teams which have not lost a game this season but which on one or more occasions have been held to a standstill.

These include: Washington (4-0-2), Louisiana State (4-0-1), Missouri (5-0-1) and Bowling Green (6-0-1).

Alabama's defending national champions made a bid for a return to the No. 1 position by smashing Tulsa 35-6. It was the Crimson Tide's 17th straight victory and its 24th consecutive game without a loss.

Third-ranked Northwestern crushed Notre Dame 36-6, mainly on the deadly passing of Tom Myers, and fourth-rated Southern Cal. battered the Big Ten's Illinois 28-16.

Louisiana State and Mississippi, Nos. 6 and 7, respectively, warmed up for their crucial grudge match Saturday night at Baton Rouge with one-sided victories. LSU trampled Florida 23-0 and Ole Miss battered winless Vanderbilt 35-0.

Razorbacks Roll

Ninth-ranked Arkansas, whose only setback was a last minute defeat at the hands of Texas, rolled past Hardin-Simmons 49-7. Michigan State, No. 10 in the ratings and with only one defeat in five games, cut down Indiana 26-8.

Auburn, which a week ago stunned Georgia Tech, won its fifth straight the hard way, a last period field goal by Woody Woodall, beating Clemson 17-14. Nebraska smashed Colorado 31-6. Missouri, with only a single tie to mar its record, toppled Iowa State 21-6. Dartmouth, which went into the game with an unscathed goal-line, became the only unbeaten-untied major team in the East by knocking over Harvard 24-6.

Auburn is looking to its Dec. 1 date with Alabama. Missouri has a date Saturday with Nebraska at Lincoln. Dartmouth goes against Yale, Ivy League co-champion, which had to rally for a 14-14 tie with Colgate. The size of Southern Cal's muscle will be tested in its game against Washington at Los Angeles.

Army and Navy, whose colorful service rivalry comes up for renewal Dec. 1 in Philadelphia, added zest to the approaching game with winning performances. Army, sticking largely to the ground, edged George Washington 14-0. Navy upset Pittsburgh 32-9 in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk, Va.

Penn State Scores

Penn State and Miami of Florida scored intersectional victories. Penn State whipped California at Berkeley 23-21 by the margin of a 37-yard field goal by Ron Coates. Miami, led by sharp-shooting George Mira, downed Air Force 21-3.

In other intersection games, Oregon State handed West Virginia its first setback of the year 51-22. Richmond squeezed past Cincinnati 21-20, and Boston College shut out Houston 14-0.

Dartmouth is now the only unbeaten team in the Ivy League but has four tough games remaining, including closing shots against Cornell and Princeton. The latter two played a thriller Saturday with Cornell winning 35-34 on the phenomenal play of quarterback Garry Wood.

Northwestern's toughest obstacle en route to the Big Ten title appears to be Michigan State, to be played Nov. 17. Duke and Maryland, unbeaten in the Atlantic Coast Conference but with a loss each outside, meet Nov. 10 in a game almost certain to decide the title and a possible bowl berth. Duke beat North Carolina State 21-14. Maryland edged South Carolina 13-11.

STARR-ING ROLE—Best pass completion percentage in the National Football League is held by Bart Starr (above), the Green Bay quarterback. Starr ranks second to Eddie LeBaron of the Dallas team in yards gained on passes.

Texans Assume AFL Lead By Beating Oilers

Dallas Gridders Score 31-7 Win

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Dallas Texans took over the American Football League Western Division lead Sunday by turning four pass interceptions and a Houston fumble into points to defeat the Oilers, 31-7.

The loss dropped the Oilers into second place behind Boston in the Eastern Division. The Dallas win, coupled with Buffalo's 45-38 upset of Denver, moved the Texans atop the West.

End Chris Burford caught passes from quarterback Len Dawson for touchdowns plays of 49 and 3 yards. Abner Haynes scored from the one after a 30-yard drive early in the first quarter.

Fred Arbanas scored on a pass from Dawson on a five-yard play in the third period. Tommy Brooker kicked extra points after each Dallas touchdown and added a 27-yard field goal in the fourth quarter.

Charley Tolar scored the only Oilers touchdown on a one-yard plunge, capping off a 53-yard third-quarter drive. The touchdown was set up by a pass from quarterback George Blanda to Billy Cannon.

Dawson had one of his best days, completing 12 of 16 passes with one interception. Blanda had one of his worst with 8 completions in 18 attempts and three interceptions. His understudy, Jack Lee, also had a tough time, losing three passes by interception.

The Oilers, who ran 391 offensive plays before Sunday's game without losing a fumble, lost the ball three times against Dallas. The Texans intercepted six Oilers passes and converted three of them into touchdowns and one into a field goal.

It was the third loss for the Oilers on their home grounds in 18 games. It was Dallas' first win here.

Scoring: Houston 6-0 7-0 7-31. Dallas 14-7 7-31.

Haynes 1 run (Brooker kick). Burford 48 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick). Burford 3 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick).

Hou. Total: 1 run (Brooker kick). Dallas 48 pass from Dawson (Brooker kick). Dallas FG 27. Brooker. Attendance: 31,750.

In Memoriam

BOND—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Paul William Bond, who died 1 year ago today, October 29, 1961.

At twilight when twilight hour draws near,

And sunset flames the sky,

We think of you, dear husband and father,

And the happy days gone by,

Thoughts of you come drifting back

Within our dreams to stay.

To know that you are resting

When twilight ends the day

Leaving wife and children.

Three Arrested In Store Entry At South End

'Arsenal' Taken From Premises

Several youngsters, including the child of a local policeman, who became frightened by some shooting yesterday afternoon in South End, led to the arrest of three teenagers who took an "arsenal" from a local sporting goods store over the weekend, authorities said.

The three teenagers, two 15 and the other 18, were arrested by Officer Joseph Nelson who was off duty when his child reported that shooting was going on along the towpath near a riding academy.

The 15-year-old boys were questioned last night by Detective Thomas J. See and Lt. Elmer Shank who said they signed statements admitting they broke into the Cline Sports Center, 1211 Ella Street, Saturday night and took three revolvers valued at $114.40, a soldering gun valued at $14.95 and at least 27 boxes of ammunition.

The 18-year-old was to be questioned and all three are expected to be taken to the state's attorney's office for further investigation.

Police said the three youths left the football game which was played at Fort Hill Stadium Saturday night, went down Virginia Avenue and later broke into the store.

The 18-year-old reportedly went through a rear window and opened the front door to allow the two 15-year-old boys to enter the building.

They helped themselves to the guns, put the ammunition in sacks and carried it from the premises.

Police said the weapons were recovered as well as the unused ammunition, with the exception of some .30-30 ammunition. After Officer Nelson called police headquarters at 2:40 p.m. Officers Robert Giles and John Vanetta arrested the boys. Officer Clarence Valentine also investigated.

Baltimore Sun Favors Tawes For Re-election

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers recommended the re-election of Gov. Tawes in the Sunday issue of The Sun.

"The governor's record in the State House looks increasingly good as time goes on, and amply justifies his election to another term," the newspaper's editorial said.

"Frank Small Jr., Republican candidate for the governorship, is an earnest man," the newspaper said, "but an aspirant whose qualifications do not match those of Gov. Tawes."

The editorial also said Small's campaign "has been plodding, unfocused and lack-lustre, unless it can be said to have been enlivened toward its close by an ill-advised flogging of the building and loan issue, a dead horse."

"Gov. Tawes in the past four years has assembled a record of solid accomplishment," the Sun said, mentioning state supervision of the building and loan industry, reappointment of the House of Delegates, court reform in Baltimore City, and rehabilitation of the state's oyster industry.

The Sun praised Tawes for keeping a pledge not to accept assistance from certain political figures, and for setting in motion "the process of cleansing Southern Maryland of the vicious and vilifying slot machines."

"Underlying the Tawes record and constituting its base has been the governor's expert handling of the state's administrative affairs and his prudent management of state finances," the editorial continued.

"A great deal of the credit for Maryland's present financial soundness, along with steady progress, goes directly to the governor."

Annual Mummers Parade Wednesday In South End

The South Cumberland Civic and Business Association will sponsor its annual Mummers Parade Wednesday evening in South End.

C. Glenn Watson Jr., general chairman, said the parade will begin at 7 p. m., and at least five marching bands will participate.

The route of the parade will be west on the Industrial Boulevard beginning at South Street and proceeding to Virginia Avenue, First Street, to Race Street where it will disband.

Participating bands will include the marching unit from Frostburg State Teachers College, senior bands of Bruce High in Westernport, Mt. Savage School, and the senior bands of Allegany and Fort Hill high schools.

The Cumberland Continentals, a Civil War unit, will also participate, according to Mr. Watson, who said 50 prizes will be awarded to the mummers in different age groups.

Democrat and Republican candidates are expected to take part in the parade. After the parade Virginia Avenue between Second and Third streets will be roped off for celebrants. Entertainment has been arranged, and there will be dancing.

Guy Smith and Arnold "Rusty" Robertson are co-chairmen. Floyd Harper is technical director and George Hollar, prize chairman.

Pittsburgh Plate Sales Are Up

A one-story frame storage shanty was gutted by fire last night in Wiley Ford.

Firemen think the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion. They were called about 8 p. m.

Volunteers from Ridgeley also were called but their services were not required.

The fire occurred in the shanty on the George Twigg property on the hill to the rear of the fire hall. Firemen had trouble reaching the blaze. The two trucks and 15 men from Wiley Ford responded.

According to David G. Hill, president, sales for the third quarter of 1962 were $165,672.689 as compared with sales of $155,331.592 for the third quarter of 1961. Net earnings for the third quarter were $10,944.903 or $1.05 per share. In the comparable quarter of 1961, net earnings were $10,166.587 or 98c per share on stock now outstanding.

CD Course Personnel 'Graduate' Tonight

A group of Wiley Ford residents who took a medical self-help course sponsored by Civil Defense authorities will "graduate" during a meeting at 7 p. m. today in the fire hall.

The regular meeting of the volunteers, usually held at 7:30 p. m., will be held at 6 p. m. today.

Language Laboratory Bid Of $9,987 Is Accepted

The $9,987 low bid submitted by Wes-Mar Communications Sales and Service Company, 9 Mullin Street, for the new language laboratory at Allegany Community College has been accepted, Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, college president, said yesterday.

Wes-Mar submitted the lowest of six bids opened at the college last Wednesday. Floyd G. Harper operates the Wes-Mar firm.

This language laboratory will include 24 student stations, each equipped with earphones, microphones and tape recorder.

The teacher will have a counsel station equipped with built-in tape recorders, two portable recorders and stereo record changers.

County Permits For Building Top $4 Million

Nine-Month Totals Are Compared

Allegany County building permit activity during September sent the total cost of 1962 construction, according to the builders own conservative estimates, above the $4,000,000 level.

During September 70 building permits and zoning certificates were issued for construction estimated at $460,980. Both totals are well ahead of September 1961 when 42 permits were obtained for construction costing $206,355.

After the first three-quarters of 1962, some 522 building permits have been issued for construction estimated at $4,177,569. These totals are 141 permits and $1,834,732 ahead of the 1961 figures of 381 permits and $2,342,837.

20 Districts

September building permits issued by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners, authorized building activity in 20 different election districts of the county.

Election District 29, LaVale, was the leader with 18 permits issued by Mr. Stevenson. He has this responsibility because LaVale is not covered by the county's interim zoning ordinance. The rest of the unincorporated area of the county comes under the jurisdiction of Mr. Renaud.

Next after LaVale was Election District 7 in the Cresaptown-Rawlings area, with 14 September permits. Other districts with more than one September building permit included District 20, Corrigansville-Ellerslie, five; Districts 5, North End suburban; 13, Mt. Savage, and 16 North Branch, four each; Districts 3, Flintstone, and 32, suburban Frostburg, three each; District 2, Oldtown, two, and District 24, Eckhart, two.

Those with a single September building permit included Districts 1, Little Orleans; 6, West Side suburban; 9, Barton; 10, Lonaconing; 11, Frostburg suburban; 15, Lonaconing; 21, Goss; 22, East Side suburban; 23, East Side suburban, and 31, McCoole.

32 New Dwellings

Thirty-two of the September building permits approved new dwellings. Another approved the building of a dwelling on an existing foundation. There also were 16 for additions or improvements to dwellings, nine for garages, three for carports, two for storage sheds, and one each for replacing garage roof, shop and storage shed, foundation for dwelling, service station, locker and wash-room, addition to a shop, apartment house.

The monthly building permit totals for 1962:

January—20 permits and $222,145; February—28 and $625,709; March—24 and $233,850; April—63 and $593,325; May—81 and $667,550; June—82 and $559,525; July—71 and $311,352; August—83 and $503,142, and September—70 and $460,980.

Monthly building permit totals for 1961:

January—nine for $49,525; February—four for $27,000; March—39 for $297,975; April—49 for $267,650; May—64 for $401,067; June—69 for $319,305; July—53 for $448,725; August—52 for $325,215; September—42 for $206,355.

Magistrates Work Toward Uniform Rules

Study Committee To Be Appointed

Trial magistrates of Maryland took formal action Friday at a meeting in Baltimore to promote regular conferences to improve the administration of justice in magistrate courts and in all courts of first instance.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, who called the meeting, was the first speaker at the session, held in the auditorium of the Department of Employment Security, 1100 North Eutaw Street. Judges from the higher courts and numerous state officials also attended.

Gov. Tawes noted that there has been a demand among the magistrates themselves, as well as among other responsible officials and individuals, to develop uniform rules and procedures in the lower courts and to strengthen the leadership of the magistrates in a program of education.

Referring to the increasing number of highway deaths, Gov. Tawes said much more needs to be done in educating drivers and in sentencing violators. The point system, which can lead to suspension or revocation of driver licenses, and other innovations were credited with a reduction in highway deaths in 1961. But thus far in 1962 an all-time record of highway fatalities is being compiled.

Uniformity Urged

He said there seems to be common accord that much more can be done by the courts, and that a coordinated program, especially in education and the exchange of ideas, is necessary.

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, whose office serves as legal advisor to the magistrates, said magistrates must understand court procedure. He suggested that magistrates study the law, that they be careful of the dignity and atmosphere of their courts, and that they explain their reasoning to all litigants after arriving at decisions.

Mr. Finan also urged uniformity in rules, legal forms, sentencing, salaries and other aspects of the courts.

Col. Carey Jarman, State Police superintendent, said that from 1951 through 1960, an average of 528 persons a year died on Maryland highways. The number fell to 461 in 1961, the first time in a decade that it had been below 500. But this year, 461 already have died in Maryland accidents, and two months of 1962 remain.

Col. Jarman said a 15-month study of 191 traffic deaths in Maryland showed 47 per cent of the accidents were caused by drinking, 48 per cent by excessive speed, and that driver error was involved in 80 per cent.

Thorough Study Needed

He suggested a thorough study of the magistrate courts' handling of traffic cases, including sizes of fines, setting of collateral, acceptance of collateral in lieu of court appearance, maximum deterrent effect, and full-time traffic courts.

John R. Jewell, commissioner of motor vehicles, said magistrates should recommend to the Department of Motor Vehicles that a driver's license be suspended or revoked if it appears he is a habitual violator and a hazard on the highways.

Chief Judge John B. Gray Jr. of the Seventh Judicial Circuit recommended jail sentences for troublesome driver, and said fines generally are too low.

Urging more uniformity in the lower courts, Judge Gray said magistrates are hampered by lack of uniform rules and procedures, and often must work in unsatisfactory quarters.

Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the Court of Appeals was authorized by resolution to appoint a study committee to begin work immediately, and to plan another conference and to make recommendations.

Attending from Allegany County were Magistrates F. Allan Weatherholt and Paul Barnett of Cumberland; Edward Flanagan and Frank P. Kelly, Frostburg; John C. Meyers, Midland; James McPartland, Lonaconing; Joseph McKenzie, Barton; Thomas Stephen, Mt. Savage; John L. Nixon, Oldtown; and Thomas Barton, Cresaptown.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris also attended and spoke briefly.

Former Resident's Husband Is Victim

Cpl. Raymond W. Hartley, 22-year-old husband of a former local resident, was one of two Marines who died of injuries sustained in a one-car accident Saturday on a suburban road in Memphis, Tenn.

Seriously injured was John King, who along with Taylor, was found sprawled in a ditch near a utility pole struck by the car. Hartley's body was found beneath the wreckage.

A witness said the car hit the pole, flipped over on its top, skidded across the street and up into a yard, where it caught fire.

Flames were confined to the engine and quickly doused with a garden hose.

Mrs. John Shipley, 616 Lincoln Street, a sister of Hartley's wife, received notification early yesterday morning from the corporal's commanding officer.

Sickles Denies He's 'Me-Too' Candidate

Accuses Steers Of Name-Calling

By The Associated Press
Carlton R. Sickles, the Democratic nominee for Congressman-at-large, was accused Sunday of displaying a "slavish me-tooism" for the programs of President Kennedy and organized labor.

Sickles' Republican opponent, Newton I. Steers, made the charge on a live television program sponsored by the Maryland League of Women Voters.

Sickles, denying the charge, said his opponent "likes to call me names all the time, but when I disagree with the President I say so and he (Steers) knows it."

"I have said from the beginning that I am a Kennedy Democrat," Sickles added. "I will go to Congress basically to support the President, but this does not mean that I will necessarily back him in every instance."

Frank Small Jr., the Republican candidate for governor, said Sunday a greater effort should be made to promote tourism in Maryland.

"We must have more extensive advertising, promotion and development of Maryland tourist, historical and scenic attractions," Small told a GOP rally in Rockville.

"I want Maryland to be judged by its beauty, rather than its scandals,"

Small said money allocated for promotion "is not money spent, but money invested."

"Tourists return this money by purchasing gasoline, food, souvenirs, lodging and many other things while they are here," the candidate said.

"At the present time, these tourists aren't aware of how much we have available for their enjoyment and intellectual enrichment, so they drive through Maryland without stopping en route to other states."

Meanwhile, the GOP nominee for Congress from the 2nd District, Fife Symington, announced that an address by former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be televised in the Baltimore area.

Eisenhower is appearing in the eastern section of Baltimore County on Nov. 2 at a rally for Symington and the statewide Republican ticket.

Pool Usage Sets Record, Mason Reports

Attendance at the Constitution Park swimming pool this year set a new record, according to C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

The final report on the pool shows that attendance at the pool totaled 30,381, including 12,396 adult and 18,435 student admissions.

Mr. Mason said the 1962 attendance is the highest since the department's records began in 1958.

Last year, pool attendance totaled 27,530, including 10,101 adult and 17,429 students.

The use of the pool has increased year by year. It was used by 21,094 persons in 1958, 24,203 in 1959, 25,448 in 1960 and 27,430 last year.

Mr. Mason said the 1962 banner attendance was gratifying, particularly since it was an unusually cool summer.

Use of the pool hit a peak on July 8, when attendance totaled 1,163. Last year the peak was reached on June 11, when 1,901 persons used the pool.

Much of the success of the pool, Mr. Mason said, was due to the fine personnel. Charles Smith, a Fort Hill High School instructor, was manager for the third year, and George Strachan was head lifeguard.

The Street Department has readied the pool for the winter. Logs have been placed in the water to keep down damage from freezing, and all pipes and pumps have been drained for the winter.

Three Arrested In Store Entry At South End

'Arsenal' Taken From Premises

Several youngsters, including the child of a local policeman, who became frightened by some shooting yesterday afternoon in South End, led to the arrest of three teenagers who took an "arsenal" from a local sporting goods store over the weekend, authorities said.

The three teenagers, two 15 and the other 18, were arrested by Officer Joseph Nelson who was off duty when his child reported that shooting was going on along the towpath near a riding academy.

The 15-year-old boys were questioned last night by Detective Thomas J. See and Lt. Elmer Shank who said they signed statements admitting they broke into the Cline Sports Center, 1211 Ella Street, Saturday night and took three revolvers valued at $114.40, a soldering gun valued at $14.95 and at least 27 boxes of ammunition.

The 18-year-old was to be questioned and all three are expected to be taken to the state's attorney's office for further investigation.

Police said the three youths left the football game which was played at Fort Hill Stadium Saturday night, went down Virginia Avenue and later broke into the store.

The 18-year-old reportedly went through a rear window and opened the front door to allow the two 15-year-old boys to enter the building.

They helped themselves to the guns, put the ammunition in sacks and carried it from the premises.

Police said the weapons were recovered as well as the unused ammunition, with the exception of some .30-30 ammunition. After Officer Nelson called police headquarters at 2:40 p.m. Officers Robert Giles and John Vanetta arrested the boys. Officer Clarence Valentine also investigated.

Baltimore Sun Favors Tawes For Re-election

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Sunpapers recommended the re-election of Gov. Tawes in the Sunday issue of The Sun.

"The governor's record in the State House looks increasingly good as time goes on, and amply justifies his election to another term," the newspaper's editorial said.

"Frank Small Jr., Republican candidate for the governorship, is an earnest man," the newspaper said, "but an aspirant whose qualifications do not match those of Gov. Tawes."

The editorial also said Small's campaign "has been plodding, unfocused and lack-lustre, unless it can be said to have been enlivened toward its close by an ill-advised flogging of the building and loan issue, a dead horse."

"Gov. Tawes in the past four years has assembled a record of solid accomplishment," the Sun said, mentioning state supervision of the building and loan industry, reappointment of the House of Delegates, court reform in Baltimore City, and rehabilitation of the state's oyster industry.

The Sun praised Tawes for keeping a pledge not to accept assistance from certain political figures, and for setting in motion "the process of cleansing Southern Maryland of the vicious and vitriolic slot machines."

"Underlying the Tawes record and constituting its basic has been the governor's expert handling of the state's administrative affairs and his prudent management of state finances," the editorial continued.

"A great deal of the credit for Maryland's present financial soundness, along with steady progress, goes directly to the governor."

As Dr. Zimmer explained it, each student will be in a separate soundproof compartment. The teacher will be able to listen to different students without their knowing it. It is believed this will reduce the self-conscious attitude many students have about speaking in a foreign language.

In speaking our native language, we first learn to understand what is being said, then learn to speak and finally to read and write. In foreign languages, the teaching has stressed reading and writing. The laboratory, the first of its kind in this area, is designed to encourage students to understand and speak the foreign language first.

County Permits For Building Top $4 Million

Nine-Month Totals Are Compared

Allegany County building permit activity during September sent the total cost of 1962 construction, according to the building department's estimates, above the $4,000,000 level.

During September 70 building permits and zoning certificates were issued for construction estimated at $460,960. Both totals are well ahead of September 1961 when 42 permits were obtained for construction costing $206,355.

After the first three quarters of 1962, some 522 building permits have been issued for construction estimated at $4,177,569. These totals are 141 permits and $1,834,732 ahead of the 1961 figures of 381 permits and $2,342,837.

September building permits issued by C. Lee Renaud, county planning director, and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners, authorized building activity in 20 different election districts of the county.

Election District 29, LaVale, was the leader with 18 permits issued by Mr. Stevenson. He has this responsibility because LaVale is not covered by the county's interim zoning ordinance. The rest of the unincorporated area of the county comes under the jurisdiction of Mr. Renaud.

Next after LaVale was Election District 7 in the Cresaptown-Rawlings area, with 14 September permits. Other districts with more than one September building permit included District 20, Corriganville-Ellerslie, five; District 5, North End suburban; 13, Mt. Savage, and 16 North Branch, four each; Districts 3, Flintstone, and 32, suburban Frostburg, three each; District 2, Oldtown, two; and District 24, Eckhart, two.

Those with a single September building permit included Districts 1, Little Orleans; 6, West Side suburban; 9, Barton; 10, Lonaconing; 11, Frostburg suburban; 15, Lonaconing; 21, Gross; 22, East Side suburban; 23, East Side suburban; and 31, McCoolle.

State-wide, the checks to Baltimore city and Maryland's 23 counties totaled $569,586, which was 9.5 per cent more than the $519,984 received in the same quarter last year.

Allegany County has been the leader in the state. The Allegany County share was up $1,198 or 7.69 per cent from the same quarter of the last fiscal year.

Washington County obtained $15,633 and Garrett County $1,717. Baltimore City received $236,667. The leading counties were Baltimore, $73,638; Prince George's, $55,766; Anne Arundel, $45,454; and Montgomery, $34,937. All of the other counties received less than Allegany.

Monthly building permit totals for 1962:
January—20 permits and $222,145; February—28 and $625,700; March—24 and $233,850; April—63 and $593,325; May—81 and $667,550; June—82 and $559,525; July—71 and $311,352; August—83 and $503,142; and September—70 and $460,960.

Monthly building permit totals for 1961:
January—nine for $49,525; February—four for $27,000; March—39 for $297,975; April—49 for $267,650; May—64 for $401,087; June—69 for $319,305; July—53 for $448,725; August—52 for $325,215; September—42 for $206,355.

Magistrates Work Toward Uniform Rules

Study Committee To Be Appointed

Trial magistrates of Maryland took formal action Friday at a meeting in Baltimore to promote regular conferences to improve the administration of justice in magistrate courts and in all courts of first instance.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes, who called the meeting, was the first speaker at the session, held in the auditorium of the Department of Employment Security, 1100 North Eutaw Street. Judges from the higher courts and numerous state officials also attended.

Gov. Tawes noted that there has been a demand among the magistrates themselves, as well as among other responsible officials and individuals, to develop uniform rules and procedures in the lower courts and to strengthen the leadership of the magistrates in a program of education.

Referring to the increasing number of highway deaths, Gov. Tawes said much more needs to be done in educating drivers and in sentencing violators. The point system, which can lead to suspension or revocation of driver licenses, and other innovations were credited with a reduction in highway deaths in 1961. But thus far in 1962 an all-time record of highway fatalities is being compiled.

He said there seems to be common accord that much more can be done by the courts, and that a coordinated program, especially in education and the exchange of ideas, is necessary.

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, whose office serves as legal advisor to the magistrates, said magistrates must understand court procedure. Sickles Denies He's 'Me-Too' Candidate

Accuses Steers Of Name-Calling

By The Associated Press
Carlton R. Sickles, the Democratic nominee for Congressman-at-large, was accused Sunday of displaying a "slavish me-tooism" for the programs of President Kennedy and organized labor.

Sickles' Republican opponent, Newton I. Steers, made the charge on a live television program sponsored by the Maryland League of Women Voters.

Sickles, denying the charge, said his opponent "likes to call me names all the time, but when I disagree with the President I say so and he (Steers) knows it."

"I have said from the beginning that I am a Kennedy Democrat," Sickles added. "I will go to Congress basically to support the President, but this does not mean that I will necessarily back him in every instance."

Frank Small Jr., the Republican candidate for governor, said Sunday a greater effort should be made to promote tourism in Maryland.

"We must have more extensive advertising, promotion and development of Maryland tourist, historic and scenic attractions," Small told a GOP rally in Rockville.

"I want Maryland to be judged by its beauty, rather than its scandals,"

Small said money allocated for promotion "is not money spent, but money invested."

"Tourists return this money by purchasing gasoline, food, souvenirs, lodging and many other things while they are here," the candidate said.

"At the present time, these tourists aren't aware of how much we have available for their enjoyment and intellectual enrichment, so they drive through Maryland without stopping en route to other states."

Meanwhile, the GOP nominee for Congress from the 2nd District, Fife Symington, announced that an address by former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be televised in the Baltimore area.

Eisenhower is appearing in the eastern section of Baltimore County on Nov. 2 at a rally for Symington and the statewide Republican ticket.

Attendance at the Constitution Park swimming pool this year set a new record, according to C. Eugene Mason, recreation director.

The final report on the pool shows that attendance at the pool totaled 30,381, including 12,396 adult and 18,435 student admissions.

Mr. Mason said the 1962 attendance is the highest since the department's records began in 1958. Last year, pool attendance totaled 27,530, including 10,101 adult and 17,429 students.

The use of the pool has increased year by year. It was used by 21,094 persons in 1958, 24,203 in 1959, 25,448 in 1960 and 27,430 last year.

Attendance at the 1962 banner Mr. Mason said was gratifying, particularly since it was an unusually cool summer.

Use of the pool hit a peak on July 8, when attendance totaled 1,163. Last year the peak was reached on June 11, when 1,001 persons used the pool.

Much of the success of the pool, Mr. Mason said, was due to the fine personnel. Charles Smith, a Fort Hill High School instructor, was manager for the third year, and George Strachan was head lifeguard.

The Street Department has readied the pool for the winter. Logs have been placed in the water to keep down damage from freezing, and all pipes and pumps have been drained for the winter.
